Ray Formally Charged; Extradition Attempt On

LONDON (AP) — U.S. legal experts worked today on plans to take James Earl Ray quickly and safely back to the United States for trial while police on both sides of the Atlantic continued their investigation to learn whether Ray had kept in his four-nation flight.

American authorities took the first formal step toward extradition Monday night by obtaining a provisional British warrant charging Ray with the murder of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Some legal experts suggested the British government might speed up the process by deporting Ray as an undesirable alien. But other lawyers said there is a strong tradition against using this procedure as a substitute for extradition.

The 40-year-old escaped convict was held in Brixton Prison after his two-minute appearance Monday in Bow Street Court on charges of carrying a forged passport and a loaded gun, the charges on which he was arrested at London Airport Saturday under the name of Ramon George Sneyd.

Ray at his first court appearance Monday was assigned a British lawyer at his own request and ordered held without bail for another hearing June 18 on the passport and gun charges.

If extradition proceedings are brought, the court will require evidence of a case against Ray and he will then have 15 days to appeal to the High Court. If Ray's lawyers raised points of law there, a further appeal might be made to the House of Lords and the process could take months.

In the two months American authorities searched for Ray following King's assassination April 4 in Memphis, Tenn., he went from the United States to Canada on April 8, to London May 6 and to Lisbon May 8. He left his Lisbon hotel on May 17 and surfaced again in London on May 28.

Police in those countries sought anyone who might have known or helped Ray, and authorities in Canada also tried to learn how Ray obtained information on the three Toronto men whose names he used as aliases.

All three men have dark hair and are about the same height and weight as Ray.

Ramon George Sneyd, whose name Ray used on his passport, is a Toronto constable. Paul Bridgman, whose name Ray used at one Toronto rooming house, is a consultant teacher with the Toronto board of education.

Ray first was sought under the name Eric Starvo Galt. Eric St. Vincent Galt, a Toronto warehouse foreman, has a signature which looks like Eric Starvo Galt. He uses the middle initials St. V., but with small zeros instead of periods.

Galt and Ray have similar scars, in the middle of the forehead and on the palm of the right hand.

"I don't know what to think," Galt said. "It's a bit more than coincidence. The weight is right, the height range is right and the identification marks are there."

"I've wondered where our paths might have crossed, but I just don't know."

Galt said he was in the Memphis area two years ago and that he traveled regularly to Florida for skin diving in the summer.

Ray, however, was in the Missouri state prison until he escaped in April 1967 with more than 12 years remaining of a 20-year sentence. Missouri also seeks Ray's extradition from Britain on the prison break charge. If he is returned to the United States, the Tennessee murder charge is expected to be given precedence over the Missouri charge and a federal charge that Ray conspired to violate Dr. King's civil rights.

Man Goes All-Out To Kick Drug Habit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say Ronald Phillip Valentine robbed six banks, taking nearly $14,000 to buy drugs that detectives say cost him $200 daily.

Officers reported Monday they arrested Valentine, 30, in a sanitarium where he was a patient paying $50 a day for treatments to cure drug addiction.

Troubles Mount For American Bases in Japan

Government Asks Nuclear Ship Ban; Students Protest

TOKYO (AP) — Troubles increased for the U.S. military in Japan today. A special committee of Japanese cabinet members urged that the United States be asked to relocate an air base. The Tokyo city council demanded a ban on visits by nuclear warships and student demonstrators blocked a gunpowder shipment.

Sentiment against American bases in Japan, which is constantly fanned by the Socialists in their campaign to scrap the U.S.-Japan security treaty, increased markedly this month after an American jet based at Itazuke Air Base crashed on the Kyushu University campus.

Despite a U.S. promise to curtail night flights, the cabinet committee recommended that Prime Minister Eisaku Sato ask the United States to move the air base to another site.

Chief Cabinet Secretary Toshio Kimura said even if the full cabinet agrees, no formal request will be made to U.S. authorities until a number of alternate locations can be offered.

Sources said the Japanese are considering asking the United States to share the Japanese air bases, at Tsukuba or Miyazaki, which like Itazuke are on Kyushu, Japan's southern island.

At Kitakyushu, meanwhile, about 100 leftist students charged into a railway station and snake-danced on its track to prevent the arrival of 1,800 tons of gunpowder for the U.S. ammunition depot on the city's outskirts.

A freight car containing the gunpowder was switched to a spur line and left standing. No attempt was made to run the student blockade.

The city assembly of Kitakyushu has adopted a resolution demanding removal of the ammunition depot because of local opposition. Last month, a U.S. freighter was unable to unload part of a 3,500-ton ammunition shipment because of a boycott by the local longshoremen's union.

The Tokyo Metropolitan Assembly unanimously adopted a written opinion opposing the entry of U.S. nuclear-powered vessels into Yokosuka the port of Tokyo and one of the two Japanese ports at which U.S. Navy ships regularly call.

The opinion asked the Japanese government to ban U.S. nuclear ships from Japanese waters. It cited the increase in the radioactivity level reported in Sasebo harbor during the recent visit there of the U.S. nuclear submarine Swordfish.

U.S. authorities denied the Swordfish was responsible for the contamination, but could not prove it to the satisfaction of Japanese officials. A series of city councils have called for a ban on the nuclear ships, and the United States has suspended their visits.

Spock Terms War Illegal, Immoral

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock denied today that he ever attempted to persuade young men to avoid service in the U.S. armed forces.

The pediatrician-author, on the stand in U.S. District Court for the second day at his trial on antidraft conspiracy charges, described his reasons for signing an antidraft statement entitled "A Call to Resist Illegitimate Authority" sometime last year.

Spock said he signed it to support young men who already had decided to resist the draft, and to reach those who might be still undecided or were attempting to evade the draft by other means.

"On the other hand," Spock said, "I believe it is wrong to persuade others actively to resist the draft."

His lawyer, Leonard Boudin, asked Spock if he had ever counseled young men.

A. Yes.

Blaiberg Treated for Hepatitis

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient, received emergency treatment for a liver complication today, Groote Schuur Hospital announced.

In London, Dr. Christian N. Barnard, who headed the surgical team that gave Blaiberg a new heart Jan. 2, said Blaiberg has hepatitis and his condition is "not critical."

Barnard, on his way to Cape Town after visiting the Netherlands, said he talked by telephone with doctors at Groote Schuur Hospital who gave him a report on Blaiberg's condition. Hepatitis is an inflammation of the liver.

"His condition is not critical," Barnard told newsmen. "But I am disappointed that this happened. I have not given up hope."

Blaiberg, 59, returned to the hospital for routine tests June 4, five months and two days after he received the world's third transplanted human heart. He was transferred Monday to the special sterilized suite he had occupied after the operation.

Meanwhile Britain's heart transplant patient, Frederick West, 45, was suffering from a chest infection that developed three days ago. But the National Heart Hospital in London said he improved slightly Monday night and the improvement was maintained today. West was operated on May 3.

Blaiberg received his new heart in the Groote Schuur team's second transplant. The first was performed on Louis Washkansky Dec. 3 but he died 18 days later of pneumonia.

Since the historic first transplant operation on Washkansky, 20 other heart transplants have been performed around the world. Six of the recipients are still alive.

New York. They came to me and I let myself be a sounding board. Both said they wanted to resist the draft. I told them they were foolish, that they could do more to help peace in the world through other means.

In his opening testimony, Spock contended the war in Vietnam "has no shred of legality and will blacken the reputations of my country for decades and centuries to come."

The pediatrician called U.S. involvement in the war "outrageous and abominable" as he testified Monday in defense against federal charges that he and four other men conspired to violate draft laws.

He said American forces have killed "hundreds of thousands" of civilians while fighting in Vietnam and that thousands of U.S. troops have been killed needlessly.

"What's the use of a physician like myself in helping to bring up children to be killed in a cause which is ignoble?" he said about American war dead.

He told the all-male jury that America is participating in a war which is "totally illegal, immoral, unwinnable and detrimental to the best interests of the United States."

Spock said he believed the United States violated the Geneva accords of 1954 which were drawn up to partition Indochina into North and South Vietnam after the forces of Ho Chi Minh defeated the French.

The accords called for elections in 1956. Instead, Spock charged the United States introduced "a puppet leader named Diem" to the South Vietnamese government and supplied him with money and guns.

On trial with the 65-year-old Spock are Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43; Mitchell Goodman, 44, a writer and teacher from Temple, Maine; Marcus Raskin, 34, a Washington research director; and Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student.

If convicted, they face maximum penalties of five years in prison and $10,000 fines.

The trial is in its fourth week.

No Injuries Listed In Train Derailment

WAVERTY, Ohio (AP) — Eighteen cars of a Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad freight train derailed at Givens in Pike County about five miles east of here early today and ripped up about 400 feet of track. No one was injured.

Robert Beavers of Springfield, the trainmaster, said the cause of the derailment was unknown. Seventeen of the 55 cars in the train derailed carried cement, coal and railroad ties, and one was empty.

Authorities said one of the cars which derailed came within six feet of running into a grocery store along the tracks at Givens. Wrecking crews were at work clearing the right-of-way and normal traffic was expected to be resumed later in the day.

Flag Day, Week Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has set aside June 9-15 as National Flag Week and Friday, June 14, as Flag Day.

Students Call Mass Protest For Tonight

PARIS (AP) — A Communist union militant was killed today in a clash with riot police in a provincial city as student and striker turmoil threatened to plunge France into a new major crisis.

In Paris, Latin Quarter university students rioted and built barricades and appealed to the trade unions and people of Paris to join them in a mass demonstration tonight against President Charles de Gaulle's government.

Several thousand Citroen auto plant workers streamed toward the Labor Ministry shouting for "freedom to work" after having been turned back from their plant by strike pickets.

The prefect (governor) of the Sochaux region, Bernard Vaugon, told a news conference that the union member, identified only as Beylot, 24, was fatally wounded by a bullet in his chest. The prefect did not say who fired the shot. The bullet was being examined to attempt to determine its origin.

Sharp fighting between riot police and strikers broke out at the Peugeot auto plant at Sochaux after workers had voted narrowly, 2,664-2,615, Monday for a return to work.

The worst fighting occurred when strikers overwhelmed a riot police car, took guns from the car and set it afire. Several shots rang out.

Authorities said that, besides the dead man, 11 strikers and two riot police were injured.

The metal workers branch of the Communist-run General France's strongest union — issued a statement charging Beylot was a "victim of aggression of the police placed in the services of the bosses by the government, against the metal workers fighting for their demands."

The Peugeot plant strikers are among several hundred thousand holdouts demanding higher wages and other benefits.

The death was the fourth attributed directly or indirectly to the student and strike crisis which began a month ago.

The first was a Lyon police commissioner, Rene Lacroix, who was crushed by a stone-loaded truck pushed by student demonstrators.

A real estate worker, Philippe Mattern, 26, was found stabbed to death May 26 after a Paris Latin Quarter riot. Gilles Tautin, 17-year-old high school student drowned Monday in the Seine River at Meulan, near Paris. Tautin was with a group of students who were attempting to flee on-coming gendarmes.

The student rioting early today in Paris was touched off by Tautin's death, which the students blamed on the gendarmes.

"We are not looking for a fight," Jacques Sauvageot, chief of the National Students' Union, told a news conference, "but if it is forced on us, we accept."

Daniel Cohn-Bendit, 23, a leader of the radical "March 22 group" of students, was at the news conference but took no part in its proceedings.

House Turns Down LBJ Gun Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's latest bid for a tougher gun control law was defeated today in the House Judiciary Committee by a tie vote but Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., held out hope for a favorable vote next week.

The committee deadlocked 16-16 on Celler's motion to report immediately the bill submitted by the administration Monday.

That measure, introduced in the House by Celler and in the Senate by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., would forbid mail order sales of rifles and shotguns as well as of handguns.

Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, senior committee Republican, voted against immediate action but made a motion to reconsider the vote. It was agreed the committee would vote again June 20.

Celler said he expected a compromise version of the legislation would be approved at that time.

Congress sent to the President last week a measure which would ban mail-order sales of pistols. But Johnson, speaking in strong terms following the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, said a tougher measure is needed to keep guns out of the hands of irresponsible people. He specified a need to ban sale of long guns through the mails.

As Congress continued to debate gun control, a widespread movement appeared to be developing in which people are turning in their guns to local authorities.

And some stores have stopped selling guns and ammunition, with one dime store saying it wouldn't even sell toy guns any more.

There were also calls for action from local and state officials as the drive for gun controls was stepped up following the Kennedy shooting.

Dodd's federal registration bill would cover all cases except in states that have their own registration laws. Sources said the only such states are New Jersey and Hawaii.

The penalty for having an unregistered gun under the Dodd bill would be a $2,000 fine and two years in prison.

Dodd's other measure would ban the mail-order sale of rifles. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., sponsored this measure earlier this year but the Senate rejected it, going along instead only with the ban on mail-order pistols sales.

Johnson has not indicated whether he will sign the bill containing the ban on mail-order pistols sales.

Governor Shuns Miniskirt, But Defends Her Femininity

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Hilma Bynoe, a practicing physician and mother of two teen-age sons, says that "women are happy all over the Caribbean" about her crown appointment as the first woman governor of a British Commonwealth country.

She was sworn in Saturday as governor of Grenada, a 133 square mile island in the British West Indies' Windwards.

"The men were completely with us on this appointment," she said in a telephone interview Monday. Anyway, men don't really discriminate against women on the islands, she said, although few women have risen very high in government.

"Of course, there are very few men like my husband, to give his wife a chance," she said of Peter Bynoe, an ex-RAF flying officer and an architect, whom she married in 1947.

"Don't misunderstand," she added quickly. "I am a very typical feminine woman, not at all masculine. I like clothes, and all the frivolity and all the fun of being a woman. No, I don't wear miniskirts, they are for the young, but I do wear my skirts above my knees."

The 46-year-old governor, who was born in Grenada, said that before the appointment "I was a typical suburban housewife and doctor in Trinidad, working at my medical practice and looking after my family."

Sons Roland 16 and Michael 15 are very proud of their mother, she said.

She is 5-foot-6½ and weighs about 160 pounds—"all good solid weight, solid bone structure."

"The appointment, a five-year assignment, was made on the advice of the government," she explained. "The executive power is in the hands of the elected government. I, like the queen of England, act on the advice of the cabinet."

Grenada, with a population of about 89,000 people, is largely agricultural, "but in recent times we have been developing tourism," she said.

Wallace Hits Campaign Trail

Picks Up Strength In 2 More States

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Bolstered by reports of enough signatures to gain ballot space in Illinois and North Carolina, George Wallace swings today an 11-city Southern tour to day—his first public appearance since his wife's death.

Wallace leaves for Memphis, Tenn., where a fund-raising dinner and a rally are on his schedule.

Not since Gov. Lurleen Wallace died of cancer May 7 has Wallace made a public appearance on behalf of his third party presidential bid.

State Sen. W. G. McCarter of Autauga County, Ala., reported from Springfield, Ill., Monday that Wallace supporters there have gathered more than 40,000 signatures, 15,000 more than the necessary number.

McCarter said he will file the petitions between July 29 and Aug. 5 to complete the legal requirements for Wallace to appear on the Illinois ballot in November.

Wallace's former news secretary Ed Ewing said in Raleigh, N.C., that the former governor has thousands more signatures than are needed to gain ballot position in that state.

Ewing said he gave North Carolina Elections Board officials petitions containing more than 16,000 signatures, at least 6,000 more than the number a third party candidate needs to qualify in North Carolina. He (Continued on Page 2)

Supreme Court Gives Policemen a Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, accused for years of handcuffing the police, has bowed to the judgment of the cop on the beat.

As a practical matter, said eight of the nine justices Monday, he can't be expected to run off to a judge for a warrant every time his practiced eye picks out suspicious behavior.

Moreover, the eight agreed, it is only reasonable that he pat down the suspect or suspects if he fears his questions may be answered with a bullet or a knife-sweep.

"Such a search is a reasonable search under the Fourth Amendment," the justices concluded, "and any weapons seized may properly be introduced in evidence against the person from whom they were taken."

Chief Justice Earl Warren assigned himself the job of announcing the landmark criminal law decision, as he has so often in the past.

It is precisely the government's interest in "effective crime prevention and detection," Warren said, that justifies stopping people on the street for investigation even though the cop doesn't have probable cause to make an arrest.

And to support the thesis that the cop has the right to frisk the suspect, Warren footnoted his opinion with FBI statistics of police officers killed and wounded from 1960 through 1966: 23,851 assaults on police officers in 1966 alone.

The constitutional basis for the court's endorsement of police stop-and-frisk powers is that the Fourth Amendment prohibits not all searches and seizures, but "unreasonable searches and seizures."

Justice William O. Douglas, dissenting alone, said "the infringement on personal liberty of any seizure of a person can be reasonable under the Fourth Amendment if we require the police to possess probable cause before they seize him."

Since the majority gave policemen power to stop and frisk before they have probable cause to arrest, Douglas said his eight colleagues had taken "a long step down the totalitarian path."

Perhaps mindful of the court's critics, Douglas continued: "There have been powerful hydraulic pressures throughout our history that bear heavily on the courts to water down constitutional guarantees and give police the upper hand.

"That hydraulic pressure has probably never been greater than it is today."

And yet, Warren's decision mixed caution in with its endorsement of police judgment. The search must be "carefully limited" to outer clothing. The courts will not permit "lawless invasions of the constitutional rights of citizens."

Perhaps most important, the majority warned, a stop-and-frisk action cannot be supported by a policeman's "inchoate and unparticularized suspicion or 'hunch'."

In one specific case, the court affirmed the convictions of John W. Terry, 33, and Richard D.

Chilton, 28, of Cleveland on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Terry was paroled after a year in prison on the weapons charge and last year was sentenced to 2 to 15 years on a conviction for possessing heroin.

Chilton, after serving 13 months in prison, was killed last June in a drugstore holdup in Columbus, Ohio.

Terry and Chilton were stopped and frisked on Oct. 31, 1963 when Cleveland Police Detective Martin J. McFadden noticed them strolling back and forth near a downtown jewelry store. The detective found a pistol on each man.

McFadden, now 67 and the oldest detective on the Cleveland force, said Monday of the court decision: "I knew I was

No Injuries Listed In Train Derailment

WAVERTON, Ohio (AP) — Eighteen cars of a Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad freight train derailed at Givens in Pike County about five miles east of here early today and ripped up about 400 feet of track. No one was injured.

Robert Beavers of Springfield, the trainmaster, said the cause of the derailment was unknown. Seventeen of the 55 cars in the train derailed carried cement, coal and railroad ties, and one was empty.

Authorities said one of the cars which derailed came within six feet of running into a grocery store along the tracks at Givens. Wrecking crews were at work clearing the right-of-way and normal traffic was expected to be resumed later in the day.

Flag Day, Week Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has set aside June 9-15 as National Flag Week and Friday, June 14, as Flag Day.

New York. They came to me and I let myself be a sounding board. Both said they wanted to resist the draft. I told them they were foolish, that they could do more to help peace in the world through other means.

In his opening testimony, Spock contended the war in Vietnam "has no shred of legality and will blacken the reputations of my country for decades and centuries to come."

The pediatrician called U.S. involvement in the war "outrageous and abominable" as he testified Monday in defense against federal charges that he and four other men conspired to violate draft laws.

He said American forces have killed "hundreds of thousands" of civilians while fighting in Vietnam and that thousands of U.S. troops have been killed needlessly.

"What's the use of a physician like myself in helping to bring up children to be killed in a cause which is ignoble?" he said about American war dead.

He told the all-male jury that America is participating in a war which is "totally illegal, immoral, unwinnable and detrimental to the best interests of the United States."

Spock said he believed the United States violated the Geneva accords of 1954 which were drawn up to partition Indochina into North and South Vietnam after the forces of Ho Chi Minh defeated the French.

The accords called for elections in 1956. Instead, Spock charged the United States introduced "a puppet leader named Diem" to the South Vietnamese government and supplied him with money and guns.

On trial with the 65-year-old Spock are Yale Chaplain William Sloan Coffin Jr., 43; Mitchell Goodman, 44, a writer and teacher from Temple, Maine; Marcus Raskin, 34, a Washington research director; and Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student.

If convicted, they face maximum penalties of five years in prison and $10,000 fines.

The trial is in its fourth week.

Woman Rescued On Bridge Perch

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A policewoman grasped a woman threatening to jump from a 300-foot bridge today and saved her life.

The policewoman, Patricia Baker, 28, was almost dragged to her death as she grappled with the woman. But others rushed to her aid and dragged both to safety.

The woman identified herself as Mary D. Wallace, 48, who said she was distraught over her husband's failing health and other matters.

A patrolman had seen her sitting on the edge of the Henry Avenue Bridge over Wissahickon Creek in northwest Philadelphia shortly after midnight.

Several would-be rescuers gathered, among them Mrs. Baker. She tried to give Mrs. Wallace a carton of coffee, and gradually worked closer.

Mrs. Baker threw herself forward and grasped the woman's arm. Mrs. Wallace slipped from the bridge. Others then grabbed both women and pulled them to safety.

The policewoman then broke down and was taken to a nearby hospital, for sedatives. Mrs. Wallace was taken to another hospital for observation.

Terry was paroled after a year in prison on the weapons charge and last year was sentenced to 2 to 15 years on a conviction for possessing heroin.

Chilton, after serving 13 months in prison, was killed last June in a drugstore holdup in Columbus, Ohio.

Terry and Chilton were stopped and frisked on Oct. 31, 1963 when Cleveland Police Detective Martin J. McFadden noticed them strolling back and forth near a downtown jewelry store. The detective found a pistol on each man.

McFadden, now 67 and the oldest detective on the Cleveland force, said Monday of the court decision: "I knew I was right."

Students Call Mass Protest For Tonight

PARIS (AP) — A Communist union militant was killed today in a clash with riot police in a provincial city as student and striker turmoil threatened to plunge France into a new major crisis.

In Paris, Latin Quarter university students rioted and built barricades and appealed to the trade unions and people of Paris to join them in a mass demonstration tonight against President Charles de Gaulle's government.

Several thousand Citroen auto plant workers streamed toward the Labor Ministry shouting for "freedom to work" after having been turned back from their plant by strike pickets.

The prefect (governor) of the Sochaux region, Bernard Vaugeois, told a news conference that the union member, identified only as Beylot, 24, was fatally wounded by a bullet in his chest. The prefect did not say who fired the shot. The bullet was being examined to attempt to determine its origin.

Sharp fighting between riot police and strikers broke out at the Peugeot auto plant at Sochaux after workers had voted narrowly, 2,664-2,615, Monday for a return to work.

The worst fighting occurred when strikers overwhelmed a riot police car, took guns from the car and set it afire. Several shots rang out.

Authorities said that, besides the dead man, 11 strikers and two riot police were injured.

The metal workers branch of the Communist-run General France's strongest union — issued a statement charging Beylot was a "victim of aggression of the police placed in the services of the bosses by the government, against the metal workers fighting for their demands."

The Peugeot plant strikers are among several hundred thousand holdouts demanding higher wages and other benefits.

The death was the fourth attributed directly or indirectly to the student and strike crisis which began a month ago.

The first was a Lyon police commissioner, Rene Lacroix, who was crushed by a stone-laden truck pushed by student demonstrators.

A real estate worker, Philippe Mattern, 26, was found stabbed to death May 26 after a Paris Latin Quarter riot. Gilles Tautin, 17-year-old high school student drowned Monday in the Seine River at Meulan, near Paris. Tautin was with a group of students who were attempting to flee on-coming gendarmes.

The student rioting early today in Paris was touched off by Tautin's death, which the students blamed on the gendarmes.

"We are not looking for a fight," Jacques Sauvageot, chief of the National Students' Union, told a news conference, "but if it is forced on us, we accept."

Daniel Cohn-Bendit, 23, a leader of the radical "March 22 group" of students, was at the news conference but took no part in its proceedings.

Angry university students ranged through the Latin Quarter.

House Turns Down LBJ Gun Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's latest bid for a tougher gun control law was defeated today in the House Judiciary Committee by a tie vote but Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., held out hope for a favorable vote next week.

The committee deadlocked 16-16 on Celler's motion to report immediately the bill submitted by the administration Monday.

That measure, introduced in the House by Celler and in the Senate by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., would forbid mail order sales of rifles and shotguns as well as of handguns.

Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, senior committee Republican, voted against immediate action but made a motion to reconsider the vote. It was agreed the committee would vote again June 20.

Celler said he expected a compromise version of the legislation would be approved at that time.

Congress sent to the President last week a measure which would ban mail-order sales of pistols. But Johnson, speaking in strong terms following the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, said a tougher measure is needed to keep guns out of the hands of irresponsible people. He specified a need to ban sale of long guns through the mails.

As Congress continued to debate gun control, a widespread movement appeared to be developing in which people are turning in their guns to local authorities.

And some stores have stopped selling guns and ammunition, with one dime store saying it wouldn't even sell toy guns any more.

There were also calls for action from local and state officials as the drive for gun controls was stepped up following the Kennedy shooting.

Dodd's federal registration bill would cover all cases except in states that have their own registration laws. Sources said the only such states are New Jersey and Hawaii.

The penalty for having an unregistered gun under the Dodd bill would be a $2,000 fine and two years in prison.

Dodd's other measure would ban the mail-order sale of rifles. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., sponsored this measure earlier this year but the Senate rejected it, going along instead only with the ban on mail-order pistols sales.

Johnson has not indicated whether he will sign the bill containing the ban on mail-order pistols sales.

Governor Shuns Miniskirt, But Defends Her Femininity

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Hil-da Bynoe, a practicing physician and mother of two teen-age sons, says that "women are happy all over the Caribbean" about her crown appointment as the first woman governor of a British Commonwealth country.

She was sworn in Saturday as governor of Grenada, a 133 square mile island in the British West Indies' Windwards.

"The men were completely with us on this appointment," she said in a telephone interview Monday. Anyway, men don't really discriminate against women on the islands, she said, although few women have risen very high in government.

"Of course, there are very few men like my husband, to give his wife a chance," she said of Peter Bynoe, an ex-RAF flying officer and an architect, whom she married in 1947.

"Don't misunderstand," she added quickly. "I am a very typical feminine woman, not at all masculine. I like clothes, and all the frivolity and all the fun of being a woman. No, I don't wear miniskirts, they are for the young, but I do wear my skirts above my knees."

The 46-year-old governor, who was born in Grenada, said that before the appointment "I was a typical suburban housewife and doctor in Trinidad, working at my medical practice and looking after my family."

Sons Roland 16 and Michael 15 are very proud of their mother, she said.

She is 5-foot-6½ and weighs about 160 pounds—"all good solid weight, solid bone structure."

"The appointment, a five-year assignment, was made on the advice of the government," she explained. "The executive power is in the hands of the elected government. I, like the queen of England, act on the advice of the cabinet."

Grenada, with a population of about 89,000 people, is largely agricultural, "but in recent times we have been developing tourism," she said.

Wallace Hits Campaign Trail

Picks Up Strength In 2 More States

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Bolstered by reports of enough signatures to gain ballot space in Illinois and North Carolina, George Wallace swings into an 11-city Southern tour today—his first public appearance since his wife's death.

Wallace leaves for Memphis, Tenn., where a fund-raising dinner and a rally are on his schedule.

Not since Gov. Lurleen Wallace died of cancer May 7 has Wallace made a public appearance on behalf of his third party presidential bid.

State Sen. W. G. McCarley of Autauga County, Ala., reported from Springfield, Ill., Monday that Wallace supporters there have gathered more than 40,000 signatures, 15,000 more than the necessary number.

McCarley said he will file the petitions between July 29 and Aug. 5 to complete the legal requirements for Wallace to appear on the Illinois ballot in November.

Wallace's former news secretary Ed Ewing said in Raleigh, N.C., that the former governor has thousands more signatures than are needed to gain ballot position in that state.

Ewing said he gave North Carolina Elections Board officials petitions containing more than 16,000 signatures, at least 6,000 more than the number a third party candidate needs to qualify in North Carolina. He

Supreme Court Gives Policemen a Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, accused for years of handcuffing the police, has bowed to the judgment of the cop on the beat.

As a practical matter, said eight of the nine justices Monday, he can't be expected to run off to a judge for a warrant every time his practiced eye picks out suspicious behavior.

Moreover, the eight agreed, it is only reasonable that he pat down the suspect or suspects if he fears his questions may be answered with a bullet or a knife-sweep.

"Such a search is a reasonable search under the Fourth Amendment," the justices concluded, "and any weapons seized may properly be introduced in evidence against the person from whom they were taken."

Chief Justice Earl Warren assigned himself the job of announcing the landmark criminal law decision, as he has so often in the past.

It is precisely the government's interest in "effective crime prevention and detection," Warren said, that justifies stopping people on the street for investigation even though the cop doesn't have probable cause to make an arrest.

And to support the thesis that the cop has the right to frisk the suspect, Warren footnoted his opinion with FBI statistics of police officers killed and wounded from 1960 through 1966: 23,851 assaults on police officers in 1966 alone.

The constitutional basis for the court's endorsement of police stop-and-frisk powers is that the Fourth Amendment prohibits not all searches and seizures, but "unreasonable searches and seizures."

Justice William O. Douglas, dissenting alone, said "the infringement on personal liberty of any seizure of a person can be reasonable under the Fourth Amendment if we require the police to possess probable cause before they seize him."

Since the majority gave policemen power to stop and frisk before they have probable cause to arrest, Douglas said his eight colleagues had taken "a long step down the totalitarian path."

Perhaps mindful of the court's critics, Douglas continued: "There have been powerful hydraulic pressures throughout our history that bear heavily on the courts to water down constitutional guarantees and give police the upper hand.

"That hydraulic pressure has probably never been greater than it is today."

And yet, Warren's decision mixed caution in with its endorsement of police judgment. The search must be "carefully limited" to outer clothing. The courts will not permit "lawless invasions of the constitutional rights of citizens."

Perhaps most important, the majority warned, a stop-and-frisk action cannot be supported by a policeman's "inchoate and unparticularized suspicion or 'hunch.'"

In one specific case, the court affirmed the convictions of John W. Terry, 33, and Richard D.

Investigation Asked In Train Deaths

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — Mayor Thomas G. Dunn asked Monday that a grand jury investigate the deaths of two persons killed by a train as they were watching the Washington-bound funeral train of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Meanwhile, Union County Prosecutor Leo Kaplowitz said his office is gathering statements from witnesses. He said he will seek television and radio tapes to aid in the investigation.

Van Camp Firm Gets Contract

Pickaway County Commissioners awarded a contract in the amount of $95,620.37 to George Van Camp for resurfacing of roads in Pickaway County.
Van Camp's bid was the only one received for County Engineer Henry McCrady's summer resurfacing program. The engineer's estimate for the job was $97,664.89.
In other action yesterday, commissioners authorized the County Auditor to purchase two typewriters from the Baker Typewriter Co. of Lancaster. The auditor was to trade in an older model typewriter and pay a difference of $309.50 for the new machines.
Commissioners also authorized Geneva Brink, the clerk, to send a letter to all mayors of incorporated municipalities in the county, inviting them to become a part of the solid waste disposal district created last year.

Rocky Launches Major Drive To Overtake Nixon

Says Americans Want New Leader, New Government
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller stressed a theme of "new leadership for a new America" today as he launched an intensive campaign to overtake Richard M. Nixon, the apparent front-runner for the Republican presidential nomination.
In a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon, Rockefeller said Americans "want nothing short of a new government, a new party in power, and a new leader at the head of that party."
The New York governor said "there is around us a new national mood and a new national resolve—to find a new leadership toward a new America. The old politics no longer suffices."
Sen. Robert F. Kennedy died, the governor said, "because he dared to speak out on the issues before the American people."
Rockefeller said his candidacy was based on "my deep conviction" that he could "carry forward the great unfinished mission of building a better America."
Rockefeller begins an intensive television and newspaper advertising campaign in an effort to sway public opinion and Republican delegates from Nixon on tonight with a nationwide television address.
One aide indicated the campaign will concentrate on Rockefeller's differences with Nixon on the issues—and the governor's theme that he is a winner and Nixon is not.
On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy has scheduled a meeting with advisers, reportedly on strategy to win away Democratic National Convention delegates now favoring Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.
McCarthy had already set a pattern of meetings with state delegates with a trip to Phoenix, Ariz., last Tuesday before Kennedy was shot and campaigning was suspended.
The Minnesota senator plans to resume formal campaigning Thursday with a speech to the New York Fellowship of Reconciliation.
Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace resumes his third party presidential campaign today with a 12-day swing through Southern states, beginning with a stop at Memphis, Tenn.
It is his first campaigning since the death of his wife, Gov. Lurleen Wallace, May 7.
Other political activity today includes primaries in Illinois and South Carolina and party conventions in Texas.
Illinois Democrats select 48 of their 118 national convention delegates and Republicans name 48 of their 58 delegates.
The organization Democratic slate—headed by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley who has not said which candidate he favors—expects to win heavily despite challenges by McCarthy backers in 13 to 24 districts. Nixon is expected to win considerable support among GOP delegates.
In Texas, Gov. John Connally is expected to get control as a favorite son of the state's 104 Democratic convention votes. Speculation has been that in a showdown Connally would back Humphrey for the nomination.
Texas Sen. John G. Tower is expected to hold control as a favorite son of 56 Republican votes, at least for the first ballot at the national convention.
In the South Carolina Democratic primary, incumbent Sen. Ernest Hollings is challenged by John Bob Culbertson, a Greenville lawyer.

said about 60,000 more signatures are waiting in Montgomery if needed.
Earlier, Wallace told a news conference in Montgomery that "our nation's leadership has failed."
He said he blames the nation's problems on those "who have brought about the breakdown of law and order." Wallace also told the newsmen "those in high places who have encouraged violence, have created a Frankenstein."
Referring to the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Wallace said the nation's streets are no longer safe for presidential candidates or the average citizen.
But Wallace said gun control isn't likely to solve the problem on violence. Such laws "will in the main wind up taking the guns out of the hands of the good citizens. The criminal can always get guns," he said.
The solution to violence, Wallace said, "lies in obedience to the law. We must give our police the authority to enforce the law."
As Wallace spoke, he was ringed by Secret Service agents plus at least two state troopers. The Secret Service detail was provided by President Johnson for major presidential candidates after Kennedy was shot.

Rush - Hour Bomb Attack On Saigon Takes 19 Lives

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong switched to daytime bombardment of Saigon today, slamming some 30 big rockets into the heart of the city during the morning rush hour. The barrage killed at least 19 Vietnamese civilians and wounded 106.
It was the heaviest casualty toll—and the first major daytime bombardment—since the Viet Cong began almost daily shelling of the capital 38 days ago. The barrages have killed at least 128 persons and wounded 519.
The six-foot 122mm rockets exploded in the vicinity of major government buildings but did little damage to most of them. However, one landed on the roof of the government communications headquarters and knocked out most telecommunications abroad, including lines leased by a number of American firms.
The barrage began about 6:15 a.m., and a little more than five hours before Gen. William C. Westmoreland relinquished his command of U.S. troops in Vietnam and left for Manila, Honolulu and Washington.
Westmoreland told a farewell news conference Monday it was almost impossible "to stop the indiscriminate firing of a few mortar rounds, a few rocket rounds, in consideration of the wide open and very chopped up and difficult country around Saigon."
He conceded that "civilians are getting killed and some houses are being damaged," but he added, as he has said before: "it's of really no military consequence. It does make headlines, I must say."
Some observers disagreed. The shelling is spreading fear among the population and undermining confidence in the South Vietnamese government, they said.
The rockets were fired from a rice paddy area about six miles due east of the center of the capital. Counter artillery fire was directed at the area, and just after the barrage troops of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment swept the area.
The Viet Cong apparently have rocket units on all sides of Saigon, having shelled the capital from the north, west and south as well as the east. A U.S. spokesman said it would take at least four divisions of troops to throw a protective circle around Saigon seven miles out, the maximum range of the big Russian rockets.
Instead, the U.S. command says, allied troops constantly patrol the outskirts of Saigon and observation planes and armed helicopters patrol the area 24 hours a day.

ter in Paris through the night and clashed with riot police. Police said that 26 persons were hurt, though only one had to be hospitalized, and 22 demonstrators were arrested.
Another student demonstration was scheduled for Paris early tonight.
Gold prices in Paris shot to record heights, a reflection of the newly unsettled situation. Buyers apparently were worried about stability of the franc and also sought a hedge against inflation due to wage increases granted late last month.
Officials opened an investigation into the drowning of a young man in the Seine at Meudon, outside Paris, which sparked the Latin Quarter demonstrations. The students claimed the police threw the student into the river. The police said he jumped in to evade an identity check.

Stock Trend Continues Up

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pushed upward in active trading this afternoon.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up from the start, was ahead 5.71 points at 919.09 at noon.

Gains led losses by nearly 175 issues.

The ticker tape at the New York Stock Exchange caught up after having run up to three minutes late.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.8 at 343.4, with industrials up 3.3, rails up .9, and utilities up .2.

Brokers said some buying interest probably came because the market closes Wednesday.

The closing will be the first of four days off taken by the market. The market will close for the next three Wednesdays as well as July 5 in a move made to allow brokerage firms to catch up with the paper work jam in their back offices.

Of the 15 most-active issues on the New York Stock Exchange, 9 advanced, 5 declined, and 1 was unchanged.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange, with 9 of the 15 most active issues ahead, 4 lower and 2 unchanged.

Rocky Launches Major Drive To Overtake Nixon

Says Americans Want New Leader, New Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller stressed a theme of "new leadership for a new America" today as he launched an intensive campaign to overtake Richard M. Nixon, the apparent front-runner for the Republican presidential nomination.

In a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon, Rockefeller said Americans "want nothing short of a new government, a new party in power, and a new leader at the head of that party."

The New York governor said "there is around us a new national mood and a new national resolve—to find a new leadership toward a new America. The old politics no longer suffices."

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy died, the governor said, "because he dared to speak out on the issues before the American people."

Rockefeller said his candidacy was based on "my deep conviction" that he could "carry forward the great unfinished mission of building a better America."

Rockefeller begins an intensive television and newspaper advertising campaign in an effort to sway public opinion and Republican delegates from Nixon on tonight with a nationwide television address.

One aide indicated the campaign will concentrate on Rockefeller's differences with Nixon on the issues—and the governor's theme that he is a winner and Nixon is not.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy has scheduled a meeting with advisers, reportedly on strategy to win away Democratic National Convention delegates now favoring Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

McCarthy had already set a pattern of meetings with state delegates with a trip to Phoenix, Ariz., last Tuesday before Kennedy was shot and campaigning was suspended.

The Minnesota senator plans to resume formal campaigning Thursday with a speech to the New York Fellowship of Reconciliation.

Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace resumes his third party presidential campaign today with a 12-day swing through Southern states, beginning with a stop at Memphis, Tenn.

It is his first campaigning since the death of his wife, Gov. Lurleen Wallace, May 7.

Other political activity today includes primaries in Illinois and South Carolina and party conventions in Texas.

Illinois Democrats select 48 of their 118 national convention delegates and Republicans name 48 of their 58 delegates.

The organization Democratic slate—headed by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley who has not said which candidate he favors—expects to win heavily despite challenges by McCarthy backers in 13 to 24 districts. Nixon is expected to win considerable support among GOP delegates.

In Texas, Gov. John Connally is expected to get control as a favorite son of the state's 104 Democratic convention votes. Speculation has been that in a showdown Connally would back Humphrey for the nomination.

Texas Sen. John G. Tower is expected to hold control as a favorite son of 56 Republican votes, at least for the first ballot at the national convention.

In the South Carolina Democratic primary, incumbent Sen. Ernest Hollings is challenged by John Bort Culbertson, a Greenville lawyer.

Cowsills Get Moola

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Dairy Assn. has signed the Cowsills, a singing group which is a mother and her children, for a series of commercials, and claims it will pay them more than an entertainer or group ever has been paid to do commercials.

The Cowsills are to gross $1 million.

The commercials will be done over four years and will be for TV, radio and on cross-country tours.

One member of the group, Dick, has enlisted in the Army.

Allied radar installations pick up the trajectory of the incoming rockets and guide the counter barrages toward the enemy firing positions. Allied forces also use helicopter gunships, fighter-bombers and flareships against the enemy firing positions and send out ground sweeps by infantrymen to comb the area.

However, U.S. officers point out that the enemy gunners can get off several rounds quickly, pull out before the allies can pinpoint the firing positions and retaliate, and resume firing from another previously established position.

The rocket attack today was the 23rd since May 5, when the Viet Cong started a "peace talks" offensive against Saigon. U.S. officers say the Communist command is trying to give the impression of military strength to back up their demands at the Paris talks.

Path Cleared for Lawsuits Against Aid for Parochials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today knocked down a 45-year-old barrier and cleared the way for taxpayer suits challenging federal aid to parochial schools.

The barrier was imposed by the court in 1923. It found then that individual taxpayers lack the standing to sue the government over big programs because their tax payments are too small to show sufficient personal involvement.

Today's ruling sweeps aside that decision. This means seven New Yorkers who contend federal aid to pupils in church-related schools violates the Constitution will have a chance to try to block the program in court.

Similarly, the ruling may clear the way for suits against other government programs.

The carefully worded 8-1 decision delivered by Chief Justice Earl Warren, said there was "no absolute bar" in the Constitution "to suits by federal taxpayers challenging allegedly unconstitutional federal taxing and spend programs."

The federal government spends an estimated $41.9 million a year under the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act to provide special education programs and library services for children attending nonpublic schools in poor areas.

The seven taxpayers claim this is prohibited by the First Amendment's ban on establishment of religion by government. The Justice Department, meanwhile, urged the high court not to disturb the 1923 ruling. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold called it "a modern exemplar of judicial denial—that the court not decide political questions."

Justice John M. Harlan dissented. He said the 1923 decision was in the main, correct and that today's holding "rests on premises that do not withstand analysis."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The man accused of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will choose a lawyer soon, says the American Civil Liberties Union.

The announcement came as investigators continued to probe the murder and Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, remained under tight security guard at Los Angeles County jail. An ACLU lawyer talked with Sirhan.

Ed Cray of the ACLU's Southern California chapter said Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer would confer with officials of the county bar association to choose attorneys from "more than a dozen top lawyers" who have volunteered to take Sirhan's case without pay. He wouldn't name the lawyers.

Leonard S. Janofsky, president-elect of the bar association, issued a statement which said his group had no official request yet to help choose counsel for Sirhan but would act promptly if asked.

Sirhan, a native of Jordan admitted to the United States as a permanent resident, has been represented by a deputy public defender, Wilbur Littlefield.

Meanwhile, the bystander most seriously injured when Kennedy was shot early Wednesday said he doesn't know who fired the shots.

Antistrike Laws Said Often Ineffective

By JAN HARTNETT

Some of the 17 states with laws banning strikes by public employees have learned the hard way that such measures—even those with tough penalties—are not a guarantee against walk-outs.

Thousands of teachers, sanitation workers and others on city, county and state pay rolls have struck in defiance of the state laws. In some cases they have suffered minor, if any, consequences despite stiff penalty provisions.

Not all of the 17 state measures call for penalties.

Antistrike laws covering public employees are in effect in Massachusetts, Delaware, Illinois, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Florida, Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Nebraska, South Dakota, Texas, Hawaii and Oregon.

In Illinois, there are no statutory provisions specifically banning strikes by public employees. But the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled that strikes by public service workers—including teachers—are unlawful.

A 1947 Pennsylvania law bars strikes by public employees under penalty of dismissal. The law provides that if a striker subsequently is rehired, he shall not be hired back at a salary higher than he received when he struck; receive no salary increase for three years; shall lose his tenure and be on probation for five years.

But the strong-language law was ineffective on two occasions recently, an 11-day strike by 1,000 Pittsburgh teachers of the Pennsylvania Federation of Teachers, and a massive protest march by 20,000 members of the

Path Cleared for Lawsuits Against Aid for Parochials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today knocked down a 45-year-old barrier and cleared the way for taxpayer suits challenging federal aid to parochial schools.

The barrier was imposed by the court in 1923. It found then that individual taxpayers lack the standing to sue the government over big programs because their tax payments are too small to show sufficient personal involvement.

Today's ruling sweeps aside that decision. This means seven New Yorkers who contend federal aid to pupils in church-related schools violates the Constitution will have a chance to try to block the program in court.

Similarly, the ruling may clear the way for suits against other government programs.

The carefully worded 8-1 decision delivered by Chief Justice Earl Warren, said there was "no absolute bar" in the Constitution "to suits by federal taxpayers challenging allegedly unconstitutional federal taxing and spend programs."

The federal government spends an estimated $41.9 million a year under the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act to provide special education programs and library services for children attending nonpublic schools in poor areas.

The seven taxpayers claim this is prohibited by the First Amendment's ban on establishment of religion by government.

The Justice Department, meanwhile, urged the high court not to disturb the 1923 ruling. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold called it "a modern exemplar of judicial denial—that the court not decide political questions."

Justice John M. Harlan dissented. He said the 1923 decision was in the main, correct and that today's holding "rests on premises that do not withstand analysis."

For many years, New York State had the so-called Condon-Wadlin law on its books, which forbids strikes by public employees. It mandated strike penalties for violators—automatic dismissal, loss of promotion rights and pay raises for those eventually rehired. But over the years, the law was regarded so harsh that the state ignored it, as did employees.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the New York Legislature fostered a study which produced the Taylor law, enacted last year. It forbids strikes, but does not mandate dismissal of violators. The law switches penalty emphasis from rank-and-file employees to their unions and union leaders. The public employer may obtain a court injunction against striking; if it is violated, the union can be fined up to $10,000 a day for criminal contempt.

Such an injunction was filed during the garbage strike in New York City and the president of the New York City Sanitation Workers' Union was jailed.

The teachers' strike occurred just as the administrative mechanisms for implementing the Taylor law were being set up, and it was generally agreed that it was not a fair test of the law's effectiveness in preventing strikes.

Crowds Diminish At RFK Grave; Family Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ethel Kennedy, with four of her 10 children, returned at dusk Monday to the grave of the assassinated Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The senator's widow also had visited the simple white cross on a slope at Arlington National Cemetery Sunday, the day after his funeral and burial.

Accompanying her and the children were Gen. Maxwell Taylor, former astronaut John Glenn, and former Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson, all long-time family friends.

Some 20,000 other people visited the flower-strewn hillside earlier in the day. Some 60,000 thronged the site Sunday.

A memorial plaque in Moscow, the sudden release of two captured U.S. soldiers, a toy dog for a little girl hospitalized in New Jersey.

As the tributes flowed, the Kennedy family, deep in its own grief, found time to share the grief of others.

At the request of Ethel Kennedy, a large stuffed toy Dalmatian dog was presented to Deborah Ann Kwiatek of Linden, N.J.

The 3-year-old was hospitalized Saturday at Elizabeth, N.J., after her grandmother hurled her to safety from the path of a train while they awaited passage of the Kennedy funeral train.

The grandmother, Antonette Sevirini of Elizabeth, had been holding the girl in her arms and standing on the tracks when a northbound train approached.

Mrs. Sevirini and a man were killed. Five others were injured. The stuffed dog was delivered to the hospital where Deborah is recovering from head injuries. The Kennedy family also sent flowers or telegrams of condolences to the families of those injured and killed.

Veteran Newsman Succumbs at 62

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — William H. Cunningham, 62, a reporter for the Rochester Democrat & Chronicle with 40 years in the newspaper field died Monday here after a long illness.

Cunningham began his newspaper career with the Cleveland Plain Dealer in 1924 and moved to the Detroit Free Press in 1928.

He served with the 7th Army Air Forces during World War II and was a reporter for the Cleveland News before and after his years in service.

He became managing editor of the Wapakoneta, Ohio, Daily News for six months prior to joining the Democrat & Chronicle in 1962.

He is survived by two daughters who attend school in Cleveland.

Railroads — A New View

When competition from the airways and highways began eroding their passenger business, the railroads — beset by rules, regulations and controls — were helpless to fight back. Service and equipment deteriorated, accelerating the process that led to the abandonment of hundreds of trains.

Nor was the government helpful. While presiding, through the Interstate Commerce Commission, over the liquidation of railroad passenger service, it generously subsidized the competitors.

Now, inspired in part by airport and highway congestion and increasing construction costs, a new mood has seized Washington. The federal government is adding to its deficit by underwriting research and development of faster trains, and railroad passenger service is an important part of the assignment of the new Department of Transportation. Now the ICC, too, is changing course.

Chairman Paul J. Tierney has suggested congressional hearings on the adequacy of what is left of railroad passenger service.

It may be the point of no return has been passed, but if there is any possibility of restoring passenger trains and getting passengers to use them, the effort should be made.

Congestion has diminished the advantages of the airplane and the automobile and there is clearly a limit to the space available for more airports and freeways.

Little Isle's Dilemmas

Little St. Helena has not been favored by history. Except for the exile of Napoleon to the isle, nothing much ever happened there. Until recently, that is.

St. Helena has discovered that democratic home rule, with which the island is now afflicted, is not always all it's cracked up to be. For example, where do the civic leaders come from on an island of fewer than 5,000 people, most of whom work for the government, when law excludes public employees from holding office?

Apparently the electorate doesn't care where they come from. In the 1968 elections, only 30 percent of eligible voters, or 656 persons, bothered to nobody — not one person — bothered to vote.

St. Helenans once wondered whether their administrators 4,000 miles away in Britain could possibly understand their problems. Now some of them look longingly in that direction and remember the "good old days."

British officials still on St. Helena are under orders to train local people to replace them. But on an island where everyone knows everyone else, the natives find it difficult to exercise power.

As they have for centuries, St. Helenans undoubtedly will manage to survive. But some of them cannot help but wish another famous visitor would come to their shores one day, voluntarily or otherwise.

Symbol of Hope

On Flag Day all Americans should pay homage to the flag of the United States. The flag displayed on the flag-staffs of public buildings or carried before marching men in a parade or standing on a platform is more than bits of cloth sewn together, more than a design of shapes and colors.

It is a symbol of things past and things to come and things eternal.

We think of things past when we speak of the flag as Old Glory, for in it we see our history. We are entitled to take pride in the American story.

Men aspired, men sacrificed for their aspirations, men achieved. We pay tribute to them when we pay our respects to the flag.

If we speak of the flag as the Stars and Stripes we can place the present and the future, in a sense, beside the past. The states that formed the original association, the states that now make up the Union — we see them in the tossing colors forever joined.

On Flag Day we recall the hopes of our forefathers and examine our own hopes and ideals. We see the American flag as a symbol of the hope of mankind.

Nude and semi-nude females apprised him of his mistake by screaming bloody murder. Recovering at the bar, the coach mourned, "It was horrible. Those fool girls ran with their heads too low, they kicked their legs too far out behind, they brought their arms too far across their chests..." "But were they dressed or undressed?" demanded the entranced bartender. The coach admitted, "I didn't notice."

A restaurant owner, sampling a newly hired cook's first pot of soup, remarked, "You say you served overseas?" "I did," said the cook proudly. "I was officers' cook for two years and was wounded three times." "You're a lucky man," decided the owner. "It's a miracle they didn't kill you."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A patient of mine was a highly paid executive in the competitive field of television. He was a driving, aggressive leader in his field and slowly graduated into the vague distinction of being a three-martini lunch drinker. He had a profound conviction that television was a destructive, ulcer-producing business that offered him no permanent security.

It is true that a deadline demanding business that lives in cycles of 13 weeks cannot give workers any feeling of permanence, whether or not they are in an executive position.

My patient began to be suspicious of all those who surrounded him. He suspected their motives when they made suggestions and generally felt they were out to make him "look bad."

This "obviously" stable citizen soon began to depend more and more on alcohol to support his failure to maintain the high degree of accomplishment that was expected of him. It was inevitable that he should lose his job and he did.

He refused to believe that his own personality deficiencies, his anxiety and his alcoholism, were factors that led to his ultimate dismissal. He could hardly accept the fact that he, as so many of us living in a complicated world of endeavor, buckle under the strain of inner and outer problems.

His first reaction to my suggestion that he needed psychotherapy was one of immediate hostility. This is not infrequent in people of all cultural and social levels, with or without college education, and with and without special sophistication.

I finally broke the barriers of resistance when I pointed out that it is no greater shame to have a psychological problem than it is to have a physical one. He was afraid that everyone "would know he was seeing a psychiatrist" or that this would keep him from getting a job in the industry. As a matter of fact, the very opposite happened.

Industry knows that the general mental health of employees can and does affect their serviceability and productivity. Many large organizations employ people only after having a physical and psychological evaluation made of the candidate seeking a job.

Many of these large industries have begun counseling programs to get at the root of the emotional problems of their employees, in all of the lower and higher echelons of their business.

Absenteeism is markedly reduced in those workers who have a sense of physical and emotional well-being.

My patient was found to be drinking excessively to compensate for his job insecurity.

He was not an alcoholic. His first reaction that "it would take an enormous amount of time to work with a psychiatrist" was dispelled when, after a few months of intensive psychological soul searching, his excessive drinking ceased and he soon attained the same level in his industry that he had had before. This was indeed a testimonial to the understanding of "big business," which today is no longer an impersonal machine.

Many industries have contributed vastly to the total rehabilitation of human beings who might otherwise have wasted significant careers.

All of us at some time in our lives need the guidance of someone far removed from us, someone who can objectively look at our problems and help us to find our own solutions.

Unmarked glass doors cause an awful lot of fractured noses.

Cranes Lead Battle Against Extinction

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Rosie and Crip have caused the nearest thing to a modern population explosion among the almost extinct whooping cranes.

San Antonio zoo officials said Monday the dynamic duo has done it again.

Zoo Director James Chism said Rosie laid one egg last week and she and Crip are taking turns sitting on it. Chism had hoped for two eggs from Rosie—the standard outlay for a female whooping crane.

He said there are only 47 whooping cranes in the wild and 10 or 12 in captivity. Rosie laid two eggs last year. One whooper died and the other was taken to the National Wildlife Center at Laurel, Md.

The standard hatching time for a whooping crane egg is 32 days.

Rosie and Crip were injured in the wild and taken into captivity.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Now almost fully recovered from a heart ailment that forced him to resign his 16-hour-a-day job as secretary of commerce, Alexander Trowbridge, Jr. has embarked on a new career selling professional management.

"I note a tremendous clamor for assistance in management development by city and state governments, by educational institutions and others," said Trowbridge in an interview. "It strikes me as an area of need we can fill to a degree."

Trowbridge, 38, is in his third week as president of the American Management Association, a nonprofit, 54,000-member association of individuals and organizations seeking to discover, develop and apply management techniques.

The task is a bit more formidable than it seems, for a stubborn stereotype stands in the way. For many years, it seems, the word "management" has been identified only with business, and its broader definition as "the organization of human affairs in any endeavor" has been overlooked.

Trowbridge feels that religion, education, the home, medicine, labor, government—name almost any area—can benefit from learning the techniques of long range planning, organizing and carrying out plans to attain objectives.

Although it is not necessary to go outside the business community to find poor management—Wall Street, for example, is smothered in paper—there is little question that a great area of need has arisen in endeavors other than business.

Educators and government officials, for instance, fret about too much administrative detail. Clergymen complain that their daily duties cannot be handled in 24 hours. Taxpayers are angry over inefficiency in city management.

Trowbridge's hope is to find the expertise in these areas and make it available to those who need it, mostly through AMA's usual channels of publications, seminars and classes. As a result of his plans to broaden the knowledge of management, Trowbridge estimates the AMA will grow swiftly, doubling its $25 million a year income in four or five years, assuming that the high quality of its work can be maintained.

This also will carry AMA more into foreign fields, where a deep and growing interest in American management methods exists, especially since the opening of the so-called technology gap.

The resulting competition with American firms wouldn't necessarily hurt this country. Instead, it could produce greater commerce among nations, with benefits to all. American business, Trowbridge feels, can take care of itself.

Another area of special concern for the AMA and Trowbridge is the part on private enterprise in the public sector, of solving the problems of education and urban blight and pollution by profit-making methods.

California Senate Upset

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The sickening news about Bobby Kennedy obscured it, but when Senator Tommy Kuchel was toppled by Dr. Max Rafferty, the State Superintendent of public schools, in the California Republican Senatorial primary, it meant the death of a legend.

Tommy Kuchel, who had risen in the U.S. Senate to be Republican Minority Leader Everett Dirksen's Man Friday, had deemed himself to be above the ordinary laws of party politics. Following the lead of former Governor (and now Chief Justice) Earl Warren, he had always made his appeal to the independent voter. He had ostentatiously refused to support Nixon, Godwater, Murphy, and Reagan when a word from him would have stored up some good-will with the conservatives without hurting him irretrievably with the liberals. As a reward for his behavior, Kuchel could always count on praise from liberal commentators as "California's greatest vote getter." But this time he didn't get the votes.

All of which means that the conservative tide in California continues to run. The interesting thing about Rafferty's primary victory is that it was achieved without a speck of help from Governor Ronald Reagan, who enforced the "Eleventh Commandment" (Thou shalt not speak evil of any Republican") on members of his staff who really wanted to help Rafferty by denouncing Kuchel. This meant that Rafferty couldn't obtain money from Reagan friends. He had to depend on little contributions, many of them from conservatives who live outside the state of California.

California newspaper support went mainly to Kuchel; even such staunch national party conservatives as Senator John Tower of Texas and Senator Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming stayed in Kuchel's corner in a vain effort to save his accumulated fifteen years of seniority in the Senate. The final thing that Kuchel had going for him was the campaign management of Spencer Roberts and Associates, the firm that had pushed Reagan over in 1966.

Against all this, Max Rafferty turned out to be the sort of giant killer that he thinks grammar school kids should be permitted to read about in their English classes. He was Saint George; Kuchel was the dragon. What Rafferty had going for him was the mood of the day.

In a state full of young parents who are sick of public schools that fail to discipline their kids or to give them good fundamental grounding in the three R's, Rafferty could point to his own record as an anti-permissive educator.

His book on school reading, "Suffer, Little Children," is an eloquent plea for a return to old classics such as Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island" or the Davy Crockett saga, in which heroic deeds are done by heroic characters who believe in the old moral values. Tommy Kuchel had paid little attention to basic three-R's education; in the sophisticated world of Washington the literature that gets into the hand of school children may not seem a great importance. But Rafferty knew that in California the votes of young parents with children of school age would mount up.

The other big issue that Rafferty had going for him was crime control. Rafferty profited by the public feeling that Kuchel wasn't for a really strong crime control bill and that he was tolerant of court decisions that have made things easy for criminals.

In beating Kuchel, Rafferty managed to avoid identification with the extreme right wing. With the skillful management team of Robert McGee in his corner, he picked up center support that Kuchel had always had in years gone by. Riding the conservative trend, Bob McGee had put Bob Matthias, the Olympic track star, over in 1966, and Ed Reinecke in 1964, in normally Democratic Congressional districts. The big Republican volunteer groups — the California Republican Assembly, the United Republicans of California, and the Young Republicans — were all for Rafferty.

When Max Rafferty says he has taken his biggest hurdle in beating Kuchel in the primary, and will surely win against Alan Cranston, a Leftist Democrat, in the fall, his judgment cannot be laughed off. He won the hard way, and his next bout with a dragon could be relatively easy.

Cleveland Gets

Income Tax Hike

CLEVELAND (AP) — A boost in Cleveland's city income tax from one-half of one per cent to a full one per cent was approved by City Council Monday night. The vote was 29 to 3.

The new tax rate, effective July 1, will bring in an estimated additional $3.6 million in the last six months this year. The full tax will produce $15 million next year.

A big share of the new revenue will be used for salary increases for police and firemen provided in charter amendments approved by voters in the May 7 primary election.

Earlier Monday, a Cleveland Heights woman filed a petition in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court objecting to the pay raise formula, which guarantees Cleveland safety forces salaries three per cent higher than any other safety forces in Ohio.

Helen Fuldauer filed a five-page petition asking for an injunction forbidding the city to pay the increases. She alleged the pay formula is in conflict with the Ohio Constitution.

He was afraid that everyone "would know he was seeing a psychiatrist" or that this would keep him from getting a job in the industry. As a matter of fact, the very opposite happened.

Industry knows that the general mental health of employees can and does affect their serviceability and productivity. Many large organizations employ people only after having a physical and psychological evaluation made of the candidate seeking a job.

Many of these large industries have begun counseling programs to get at the root of the emotional problems of their employees, in all of the lower and higher echelons of their business.

Absenteeism is markedly reduced in those workers who have a sense of physical and emotional well-being.

My patient was found to be drinking excessively to compensate for his job insecurity. He was not an alcoholic. His first reaction that "it would take an enormous amount of time to work with a psychiatrist" was dispelled when, after a few months of intensive psychological soul searching, his excessive drinking ceased and he soon attained the same level in his industry that he had had before. This was indeed a testimonial to the understanding of "big business," which today is no longer an impersonal machine.

Many industries have contributed vastly to the total rehabilitation of human beings who might otherwise have wasted significant careers.

Ad of us at some time in our lives need the guidance of someone far removed from us, someone who can objectively look at our problems and help us to find our own solutions.

Unmarked glass doors cause an awful lot of fractured noses.

Cranes Lead Battle Against Extinction

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Rosie and Crip have taken the nearest thing to a modern population explosion among the almost extinct whooping cranes.

San Antonio zoo officials said Monday the dynamic duo has done it again.

Zoo Director James Chism said Rosie laid one egg last week and she and Crip are taking turns sitting on it. Chism had hoped for two eggs from Rosie—the standard outlay for a female whooping crane.

He said there are only 47 whooping cranes in the wild and 10 or 12 in captivity. Rosie laid two eggs last year. One whooper died and the other was taken to the National Wildlife Center at Laurel, Md.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Now almost fully recovered from a heart ailment that forced him to resign his 16-hour-a-day job as secretary of commerce, Alexander Trowbridge, Jr. has embarked on a new career selling professional management.

"I note a tremendous clamor for assistance in management development by city and state governments, by educational institutions and others," said Trowbridge in an interview. "It strikes me as an area of need we can fill to a degree."

Trowbridge, 38, is in his third week as president of the American Management Association, a nonprofit, 54,000-member association of individuals and organizations seeking to discover, develop and apply management techniques.

The task is a bit more formidable than it seems, for a stubborn stereotype stands in the way. For many years, it seems, the word "management" has been identified only with business, and its broader definition as "the organization of human affairs in any endeavor" has been overlooked.

Trowbridge feels that religion, education, the home, medicine, labor, government—name almost any area—can benefit from learning the techniques of long range planning, organizing and carrying out plans to attain objectives.

Although it is not necessary to go outside the business community to find poor management—Wall Street, for example, is smothered in paper—there is little question that a great area of need has arisen in endeavors other than business.

Educators and government officials, for instance, fret about too much administrative detail. Clergymen complain that their daily duties cannot be handled in 24 hours. Taxpayers are angry over inefficiency in city management.

Trowbridge's hope is to find the expertise in these areas and make it available to those who need it, mostly through AMA's usual channels of publications, seminars and classes.

As a result of his plans to broaden the knowledge of management, Trowbridge estimates the AMA will grow swiftly, doubling its $25 million a year income in four or five years, assuming that the high quality of its work can be maintained.

This also will carry AMA more into foreign fields, where a deep and growing interest in American management methods exists, especially since the opening of the so-called technology gap.

The resulting competition with American firms would not necessarily hurt this country. Instead, it could produce greater commerce among nations, with benefits to all. American business, Trowbridge feels, can take care of itself.

Another area of special concern for the AMA and Trowbridge is the part on private enterprise in the public sector, of solving the problems of education and urban blight and pollution by profit-making methods.

California Senate Upset

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The sickening news about Bobby Kennedy obscured it, but when Senator Tommy Kuchel was toppled by Dr. Max Rafferty, the State Superintendent of public schools, in the California Republican Senatorial primary, it meant the death of a legend.

Tommy Kuchel, who had risen in the U.S. Senate to be Republican Minority Leader Everett Dirksen's Man Friday, had deemed himself to be above the ordinary laws of party politics. Following the lead of former Governor (and now Chief Justice) Earl Warren, he had always made his appeal to the independent voter. He had ostentatiously refused to support Nixon, Goldwater, Murphy, and Reagan when a word from him would have stored up some good-will with the conservatives without hurting him irretrievably with the liberals. As a reward for his behavior, Kuchel could always count on praise from liberal commentators as "California's greatest vote getter." But this time he didn't get the votes.

All of which means that the conservative tide in California continues to run. The interesting thing about Rafferty's primary victory is that it was achieved without a speck of help from Governor Ronald Reagan, who enforced the "Eleventh Commandment" (Thou shalt not speak evil of any Republican)" on members of his staff who really wanted to help Rafferty by denouncing Kuchel. This meant that Rafferty couldn't obtain money from Reagan friends. He had to depend on little contributions, many of them from conservatives who live outside the state of California.

California newspaper support went mainly to Kuchel; even such staunch national party conservatives as Senator John Tower of Texas and Senator Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming stayed in Kuchel's corner in a vain effort to save his accumulated fifteen years of seniority in the Senate. The final thing that Kuchel had going for him was the campaign management of Spencer Roberts and Associates, the firm that had put Reagan all over in 1966.

Against all this, Max Rafferty turned out to be the sort of giant killer that he thinks grammar school kids should be permitted to read about in their English classes. He was Saint George; Kuchel was the dragon. What Rafferty had going for him was the mood of the day. In a state full of young parents who are sick of public schools that fail to discipline their kids or to give them good fundamental grounding in the three R's, Rafferty could point to his own record as an anti-permissive educator.

His book on school reading, "Suffer, Little Children," is an eloquent plea for a return to old classics such as Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island" or the Davy Crockett saga, in which heroic deeds are done by heroic characters who believe in the old moral values. Tommy Kuchel had paid little attention to basic three-R's education; in the sophisticated world of Washington the literature that gets into the hand of school children may not seem a great importance. But Rafferty knew that in California the votes of young parents will children of school age would mount up.

The other big issue that Rafferty had going for him was crime control. Rafferty profited by the public feeling that Kuchel wasn't for a really strong crime control bill and that he was tolerant of court decisions that have made things easy for criminals.

In beating Kuchel, Rafferty managed to avoid identification with the extreme right wing. With the skillful management team of Robert McGee in his corner, he picked up center support that Kuchel had always had in years gone by. Riding the conservative trend, Bob McGee had put Bob Matthias, the Olympic track star, over in 1966, and Ed Reinecke in 1964, in normally Democratic Congressional districts. The big Republican volunteer groups — the California Republican Assembly, the United Republicans of California, and the Young Republicans — were all for Rafferty.

When Max Rafferty says he has taken his biggest hurdle in beating Kuchel in the primary, and will surely win against Alan Cranston, a Leftist Democrat, in the fall, his judgment cannot be laughed off. He won the hard way, and his next bout with a dragon could be relatively easy.

Cleveland Gets Income Tax Hike

CLEVELAND (AP) — A boost in Cleveland's city income tax from one-half of one per cent to a full one per cent was approved by City Council Monday night. The vote was 29 to 3.

The new tax rate, effective July 1, will bring in an estimated additional $3.6 million in the last six months this year. The full tax will produce $15 million next year.

A big share of the new revenue will be used for salary increases for police and firemen provided in charter amendments approved by voters in the May 7 primary election.

Earlier Monday, a Cleveland Heights woman filed a petition in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court objecting to the pay raise formula, which guarantees Cleveland safety forces salaries three per cent higher than any other safety forces in Ohio.

Helen Fuldauer filed a five-page petition asking for an injunction forbidding the city to pay the increases. She alleged the pay formula is in conflict with the Ohio Constitution.

'Plaything' Auto Is Serious Business

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen this problem in print before, but you have no idea how much it means to those of us who are faced with it.

My husband thinks his car is a plaything. It is unbelievable how immature he becomes when he gets behind the wheel.

For example, he'll pick out a car on the road, and try to "race" with it. Or he'll drive with no hands on the wheel, and steer with his KNEES. Or if he sees a pedestrian slowly crossing the street he speeds up and aims his car right at him, to scare him. He also tries to frighten other drivers by seeing how close he can come to him without actually hitting them. Believe me, we have had some pretty close calls.

He does these things with our four impressionable youngsters in the car, and they seem to enjoy it. If I say one word to him, he flies into a rage, so I don't dare to open my mouth. What should I do?

TREMBLING
DEAR TREMBLING: If the most you can do is "tremble" when your smart-alecky husband risks the necks of his family, not to mention his own and stranger, you have a

'Stop and Frisk' Right Affirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld Monday the power of police to stop suspicious people on the street and to "frisk" them for weapons.

The decision, given by Chief Justice Earl Warren, said a policeman is entitled for the protection of himself and others "to conduct a carefully limited search" of suspects' outer clothing to find weapons which might be used to assault him.

Such searches, Warren said, may be conducted in these circumstances.

1. "Where a police officer observes unusual conduct which leads him reasonably to conclude in light of his experience that criminal activity may be afoot and that the persons with whom he is dealing may be armed and presently dangerous."

2. "Where in the course of investigating this behavior he identifies himself as a policeman and makes reasonable inquiries."

3. "And where nothing in the initial stages of the encounter serves to dispel his reasonable fear for his or others' safety."

bigger problem than you think. Call your local police department and report the boob. Give them his license number, and the description of his car and ask them to look out for him on the pretense that they've received "anonymous" complaints. Of course they can't touch him until they catch him breaking the law, but if he drives as you say he does, they'll soon nab him.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a very nice girl (I thought) for about 6 months. About a week ago I asked her to marry me. She said she couldn't give me a definite answer until I talked to her father.

Well, I made arrangements to talk to her father and this is what happened. He took me into another room and closed the door. He didn't pull any punches. He asked me how much money I made, how much I had saved, how much insurance I had and what I owned. I told him. The whole thing didn't take 5 minutes. Then he told me I was not meant for his daughter, and he showed me the door. On my way out, I passed by my "nice" girl, and she didn't say a word. She just gave me a blank look. I have thought this over and I am wondering now if maybe I wasn't lucky to have it happen this way. Signed,

STILL WONDERING
DEAR STILL: No doubt about it. Everyone was lucky.

DEAR ABBY: In regards to the mother who came home early one Sunday afternoon and caught her teen-age son and the young Scandinavian maid "flagrante delicto":

You advised the mother to tell the boy about the birds and bees. It would appear that the maid has already done that.

If the mother cans the maid, I would like to hire her. I love Scandinavian cooking.

Interracial Plumbing Firm Born; Hopes To Profit on Federal Jobs

By WILLIAM F. MILLER

CLEVELAND Plain Dealer Writer
CLEVELAND (AP)—The first Cleveland interracial plumbing and pipefitting contractor firm has been formed here with a business eye to cashing in on large federal, government financed construction projects.

It is a unique approach to meeting mandatory equal employment opportunity clauses in federal contracts that have held up millions of dollars in construction in the greater Cleveland area.

The new company is called Sweeny and Ware, Inc.

It has been established by Ed Sweeny, president of Cleveland Plumbing & Heating Co., largest independent mechanical contractor in northeast Ohio, and William J. Ware, president of the all-Negro Ware Plumbing and Heating Co.

Combining the talents of the two long-time Cleveland firms, both men pointed out, has nothing to do with extending civil rights.

Both Sweeny and Ware do not gloss over the fact that they set up the new company as a strict business venture to make a profit.

"We feel we have the experience and knowledge and will have a jump on a meaningful affirmative action program that will put us in a real competitive position to bid on large government financed contracts here," they said.

Sweeny, whose company last year did a $1 million gross business, has six plumbers and 19 pipefitters, all card carrying union members. He also has one of the few Negro pipefitter apprentices, which Pipefitter Local 120 recently accepted.

Ware, who did $150,000 gross business last year, has eight Negro plumbers, two of whom are members of Plumbers Local 55.

Although both will continue to operate their own companies independently, the new firm will be run as a separate operation with headquarters at the newly remodeled Sweeny Building, 3215 Superior Ave. NE.

Ware will be president and Sweeny vice president of sales of the new company.

When Sweeny got the idea for an interracial company he first thought of Ware, who has operated a successful contracting business for 36 years. They hit it off together immediately, both agreed.

As a test, their white and Negro plumbers worked together on a Sweeny project, the $250,000 mechanical contract for the laboratory addition to Macdonald House of University Hospitals.

Billy Ware Jr. was the man in charge. They found that the arrangement worked perfectly. Work now is about half completed.

Minimum Wage Law Is Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today approved a 1966 federal law that provides a minimum hourly wage and time and a half for overtime for about 1.7 million state workers.

Twenty-eight states had contested the law, claiming Congress had exceeded its constitutional powers.

The court disagreed with the states by a vote of 6-2. Speaking for the majority, Justice John M. Harlan said, "It is clear that labor conditions in schools and hospitals can affect commerce."

The court cited an earlier decision in which it approved steps taken by Congress to regulate activities within a state where they have a substantial effect on commerce crossing state boundaries.

This applies in the case of state hospitals, schools and other state institutions newly brought under the minimum wage provisions because they are large purchasers and users of goods from other states, the court said.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Plane Lands Safely Despite Wheel Loss

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A Lake Central passenger plane landed safely at Weir Cook Municipal Airport here Monday night after losing one of its dual wheels in the right landing assembly.

The Convair 580 prop jet, flight 592, lost the wheel in taking off from St. Louis with 27 passengers aboard, a Lake Central spokesman said. The plane bound for Cincinnati with a stop at Terre Haute, Ind., was diverted here for the emergency landing.

The prosecution said Andrew Jackson Case, also of Akron, was blinded when Rowles threw acid at him.

Elderly Constitute Valuable Market

LOS ANGELES (AP)—American businessmen scrambling to appeal to the young "new generation" overlook the loyalty and $40-billion-a-year income they could attract from the elderly, a university researcher says.

Dr. A. Coskun Samli, associate professor of marketing at the University of Southern California, said Monday that what he calls the senior citizen market represents more than 10 per cent of the nation's population and is growing by from 300,000 to 400,000 persons a year. The elderly spend $950 million yearly on hobbies, he said.

Man Draws Life Term For Acid-Throwing

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Almer Rowles, 61, of Akron, convicted by a common pleas court jury last week of maiming a man by throwing acid in his face, was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Ohio Penitentiary Monday.

The prosecution said Andrew Jackson Case, also of Akron, was blinded when Rowles threw acid at him.

Views on TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Champions," NBC's British import to replace its "laugh-in" for the summer, had the shape of an old model in its American premiere Monday night.

The program is a cross between superman stuff and "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." style of show.

In "The Champions," three attractive young persons, two men and a girl, are dedicated to fighting evil.

They work for some international crime-fighting organization. The gimmick is that all three are possessed of strange powers that permit them to see details at great distances, hear through closed doors, immobilize enemies by staring at them and even transmit signals among themselves by mental telepathy.

NBC chose not to tell us how they got these supernatural powers.

At any rate, the story was routine with evil dope pushers, sinister masterminds and the usual fights.

And fights currently are not popular with the television networks. Neither is any kind of action in that area.

All television, particularly the major networks, is worried about talk relating violence to broadcasting and motion pictures. TV executives expect that their entertainment programs will be scrutinized for fist fights, gun play and the like.

CBS President Frank Stanton in a statement Monday said that his network plans immediate conferences with producers with the aim to "de-emphasize violence" in programs being made for next season.

A programming executive who requested anonymity said that he knows that all networks are moving fast to tone down the violence in action-adventure shows.

"It's too late now to do much about the reruns," he said, "but there will probably be a little editing where possible. And the length of some fights may be trimmed down."

It is probable, too, that episodes now scheduled for rerun in a series will be pulled out and milder episodes substituted.

Springfield Manager Switches Assignment
KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — James L. Caplinger, 31, city manager of Springfield, Ohio, since 1965, was named today to the $21,000 post of city manager of Kalamazoo.

He succeeds Clarence Elliott, 65, city manager since 1951, who will retire June 30.

Kalamazoo Mayor Paul Schrier said the city commission had selected Caplinger "because of his background which includes law, public administration and racial matters."

Caplinger received his bachelor's degree at Ohio State University where he majored in political science. He later attended law school and took public administration courses at OSU.

New CD Center Ready
MAYNARD, Mass. (AP) — A new $14-million underground Civil Defense center has been dedicated. It is a communications facility to deal with emergency situations in natural disasters or nuclear attack in Region 1—the New England states, New York, New Jersey, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Soldier Frightened by a Cow? War Veteran Tells How It Feels

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer
CAMP EAGLE, Vietnam (AP) — The weatherbeaten sergeant major tilted back his helmet, scratched his chin and recalled that he had been frightened by a cow.

Plenty of soldiers had been frightened by cows and lots of other things on that dark night 24 years ago when they parachuted into Normandy.

These were not the beachhead forces which went in at dawn—these were the paratroopers who dropped behind the Nazi lines hours ahead of the main strike on D-Day, June 6.

They belonged to the 101st and 82nd airborne divisions and not many of them are still around. Only a handful are dodging bullets in Vietnam.

Attacked by Moose

ALTON, N.H. (AP) — Mrs. Robert Wentworth was driving to the store when a 600-pound moose emerged from the woods and charged her car. She and her 4-month-old daughter escaped with cuts and bruises. The moose was killed.

They try and stay in touch and exchange stories—like the rocket the other night that blew up a latrine next to the Colonel's tent. The explosion hurled the toilet seat into the colonel's cot, which luckily was unoccupied at the time, the colonel, being in a bunker.

The colonel is Lt. Col. Bernard E. Carr, 45-year-old ramrod-straight provost marshal of the 101st Airborne Division.

In Normandy, he was a green young artillery lieutenant and though his career has since carried him through Korea and Vietnam, nothing has dimmed the memory.

After the war, Carr went back to Michigan State University, studied criminology and came back in the Army as a military policeman. He also had four children—the oldest boy is now at West Point.

Another Normandy veteran with the division has become something of a legend—A. B.

Cannon, the grizzled sergeant major of the 2nd Brigade, 101st Airborne.

Cannon, 44, lean and tough from Cisco, Tex., jumped as a "pathfinder" with the 82nd Airborne Division, the pathfinders being those who go first to mark drop zones for others.

He has two vivid memories of the night, both a little embarrassing.

He somehow dropped his weapon coming down and the man who braced him, and then gave him his own weapon, was James M. Gavin, the airborne commander who later became a

In "The Champions," three attractive young persons, two men and a girl, are dedicated to fighting evil.

They work for some international crime-fighting organization. The gimmick is that all three are possessed of strange powers that permit them to see details at great distances, hear through closed doors, immobilize enemies by staring at them and even transmit signals among themselves by mental telepathy.

NBC chose not to tell us how they got these supernatural powers.

At any rate, the story was routine with evil dope pushers, sinister masterminds and the usual fights.

And fights currently are not popular with the television networks. Neither is any kind of action in that area.

All television, particularly the major networks, is worried about talk relating violence to broadcasting and motion pictures. TV executives expect that their entertainment programs will be scrutinized for fist fights, gun play and the like.

CBS President Frank Stanton in a statement Monday said that his network plans immediate conferences with producers with the aim to "de-emphasize violence" in programs being made for next season.

A programming executive who requested anonymity said that he knows that all networks are moving fast to tone down the violence in action-adventure shows.

"It's too late now to do much about the reruns," he said, "but there will probably be a little editing where possible. And the length of some fights may be trimmed down."

It is probable, too, that episodes now scheduled for rerun in a series will be pulled out and milder episodes substituted.

Springfield Manager Switches Assignment

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—James L. Caplinger, 31, city manager of Springfield, Ohio, since 1965, was named today to the $21,000 post of city manager of Kalamazoo.

He succeeds Clarence Elliott, 65, city manager since 1951, who will retire June 30.

Kalamazoo Mayor Paul Schrier said the city commission had selected Caplinger "because of his background which includes law, public administration and racial matters."

Caplinger received his bachelor's degree at Ohio State University where he majored in political science. He later attended law school and took public administration courses at OSU.

New CD Center Ready

MAYNARD, Mass. (AP)—A new $14-million underground Civil Defense center has been dedicated. It is a communications facility to deal with emergency functions in natural disasters or nuclear attack in Region 1—the New England states, New York, New Jersey, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Soldier Frightened by a Cow? War Veteran Tells How It Feels

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

Associated Press Writer

CAMP EAGLE, Vietnam (AP)

The weatherbeaten sergeant major tilted back his helmet, scratched his chin and recalled that he had been frightened by a cow.

Plenty of soldiers had been frightened by cows and lots of other things on that dark night 24 years ago when they parachuted into Normandy.

These were not the beachhead forces which went in at dawn—these were the paratroopers who dropped behind the Nazi lines hours ahead of the main strike on D-Day, June 6.

They belonged to the 101st and 82nd airborne divisions and not many of them are still around. Only a handful are dodging bullets in Vietnam.

Attacked by Moose

ALTON, N.H. (AP) — Mrs. Robert Wentworth was driving to the store when a 600-pound moose emerged from the woods and charged her car. She and her 4-month-old daughter escaped with cuts and bruises. The moose was killed.

They try and stay in touch and exchange stories—like the rocket the other night that blew up a latrine next to the Colonel's tent. The explosion hurled the toilet seat into the colonel's cot, which luckily was unoccupied at the time, the colonel being in a bunker.

The colonel is Lt. Col. Bernard E. Carr, 45-year-old ramrod-straight provost marshal of the 101st Airborne Division.

In Normandy, he was a green young artillery lieutenant and though his career has since carried him through Korea and Vietnam, nothing has dimmed the memory.

After the war, Carr went back to Michigan State University, studied criminology and came back in the Army as a military policeman. He also had four children—the oldest boy is now at West Point.

Another Normandy veteran with the division has become something of a legend—A. B.

Cannon, the grizzled sergeant major of the 2nd Brigade, 101st Airborne.

Cannon, 44, lean and tough from Cisco, Tex., jumped as a "pathfinder" with the 82nd Airborne Division, the pathfinders being those who go first to mark drop zones for others.

He has two vivid memories of the night, both a little embarrassing.

He somehow dropped his weapon coming down and the man who braced him, and then gave him his own weapon, was James M. Gavin, the airborne commander who later became a three-star general.

After the war, Cannon stayed in airborne outfits, made another combat jump with the 187th Regimental Combat Team in Korea and did such unusual things as serving as an airborne advisor in Saudi Arabia.

Sometimes he runs into an old comrade, John Dobransky of Nashville, Tenn., who is now sergeant major of the 2nd Battalion.

These three think they are the only Normandy jumpers now at Camp Eagle, the headquarters of the 101st Airborne Division and the attached brigade of the 82nd Airborne.

"Of course we are proud to have been there," Carr recalled. "But it was just an episode in the war. A lot of good men joined us later."

Local Kiwanians To Attend 53rd International Confab

Stanley Spring, president, and Thomas Downing, vice president, representing the Kiwanis Club of Circleville, will attend the 53rd Annual International Convention of Kiwanis International in Toronto, Ontario, June 30 — July 3.

The convention will emphasize the rapid expansion of Kiwanis in nations abroad, and the 1967-68 Theme, "Be a Builder — Get Personally Involved."

Approximately 20,000 people, Kiwanians and their families, will attend. They will represent more than 275,000 Kiwanians in 5,600 clubs in the United States, Canada, Mexico, the Caribbean, Western Europe, the Far East, Central and South America. Convention sessions will be held in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

Work to be accomplished at the convention includes the election of officers for 1968-69, a president, president-elect, two vice presidents, a treasurer, and six trustees; recognition of the clubs and districts throughout the organization; adjudged tops in community service work and over-all excellence, and the adoption of resolutions upon which the organization's 1968-69 community service program will be based.

Presiding officer will be James M. Moler, Charles Town, W. Va., president of Kiwanis and college administrator in Charles Town. Speakers, in addition to Moler, are: U.S. Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia; The Honorable W. Ross Thatcher, Premier of Saskatchewan; Paul Harvey, ABC news commentator; Key Club International President Michael A. Waters; and Circle K International President David A. Keyko.

Much of the convention business will be conducted during six general convention sessions in the Maple Leaf Gardens. Round table discussions and workshops will be held at the Royal York Hotel.

Thumb Wrong Flavor
MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — After 2-year-old Jeffrey Garrett sprained his elbow, the bandage made it impossible for him to lift his favorite sucking thumb to his mouth. "Suck the other thumb," his mother advised. "It's not as good," the child replied tearfully.

Westy Leaving War Front, Predicts Long Fight Ahead

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, departing after four years in command of U.S. forces in Vietnam, said today American strength was greater than ever "but it is unrealistic to expect a quick and easy defeat of the Hanoi-led enemy."

"If he feels time is on his side, he can go on a long time," Westmoreland said of the enemy in a farewell news conference on the eve of his departure to become Army chief of staff in Washington.

The general repeated an assertion he made in Washington late last year that it might be possible to begin a token phase-out of U.S. forces in Vietnam within two years, adding: "I have no reason to change that estimate."

Westmoreland said the phase-out might begin late in 1969, but added that this statement was based on "trends" that might change.

He added that he could not predict what would happen at the peace talks in Paris, but from his view the enemy appeared to still be in search of major military victory.

Westmoreland said he felt that a classical military victory was not possible in South Vietnam in view of U.S. policy decisions not to escalate the war or to enlarge its geographic boundaries.

He added: "But the enemy can attrited, the price can be raised. It is being raised to the point that it could be intolerable for the enemy. It may reach the point of the question of the destruction of his country, and jeopardizing the future of his country, if he continues to pay the price he is now paying and destined to pay in the future."

Westmoreland said the enemy had lost 113,000 men since the first of the year and added "he doesn't have the manpower or resources to take these losses in stride."

Westmoreland noted recent defection of several high-ranking enemy officers, enemy losses on the battlefield, the decrease in local recruiting, sky-rocketing enemy weapons losses and a general decline in the enemy's battlefield performance.

"The quality of his battlefield performance approaches the pathetic in some cases," Westmoreland said.

He added "the enemy is showing great recklessness" in his current use of his manpower and contended that any description of the war as a stalemate "was not accurate at all."

Westmoreland departs Tuesday and will turn over the Saigon command to his deputy for the past year, Gen. Creighton Abrams Jr.

Douglas Has Chest Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has announced that Associate Justice William O. Douglas underwent "minor chest surgery" last week at Walter Reed Hospital.

"It was entirely successful and his recovery has been complete," the court's press office said. It added that Douglas is expected to go home Tuesday to convalesce.

Douglas, 69, has been notably absent from court on several occasions this term. When reporters inquired, they were told he had an infected tooth problem, and, on another occasion was suffering from a virus.

Today's statement was issued after a reporter noticed that Douglas was not at his place on the bench.

Miss Poling To Sing in State Contest

Lorna Poling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Poling, Route 4, will represent the Central District in a state contest for high school musicians sponsored by the Ohio Music Teachers' Assn. in Dayton June 17-18.

Miss Poling earned the right to compete by placing first in a contest recently at Ohio State University. The state contest will be part of the state convention of the OMTA.

A 1968 graduate of Logan Elm High School, Miss Poling is a student of Miss Irma Cooper, Assistant professor of music at Ohio State University. Her accompanist is Miss Cheryl Hulse of Circleville, a senior in OSU's school of music.

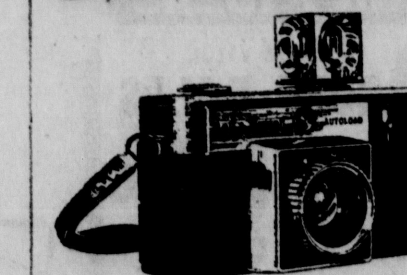

Miss Poling will perform Gounod's opera "Romeo and Juliet" in state competition.

Electricity is the "best buy" in your budget today. And it is delivered instantly, as you need it, in any amount you need!

While the prices of many items have doubled or tripled, the price you pay per kilowatt-hour of electricity is actually lower in Ohio than it was 20 years ago! (Because electricity does so many things for you, you are using more than ever—and naturally your total bill is higher.)

How has electricity remained such a bargain?

Ohio's investor-owned electric light and power companies keep developing better ways to serve your electrical needs. One example... the strong regional network that interconnects Ohio's eight electric companies with each other, and links with electric systems in other states. This exchange of power results in more efficient operation. Increased efficiency (and your increased use of electricity) have helped to keep the price low. Missionary Convention Scheduled

The Rev. Kenneth Fuller announced today the First Church of Christ in Christian Union located on E. Ohio St. will hold a missionary convention 7:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday.

The guest speaker for the convention will be the Rev. Harley Bennett, recently returned from the missionary field in Dominica.

Rev. and Mrs. Bennett have served as superintendent of this field for the past four years. Rev. Bennett has directed and assisted with the building of the Bible School at Castle Bruce. He has pastored some of the larger churches of the denomination.

Before going to the field of Dominica, he pastored the North Columbus Church of Christ in Christian Union. Rev. Bennett is also a former pastor of the local church.

The public is invited to attend the services.

How has electricity remained such a bargain?

Ohio's investor-owned electric light and power companies keep developing better ways to serve your electrical needs. One example... the strong regional network that interconnects Ohio's eight electric companies with each other, and links with electric systems in other states. This exchange of power results in more efficient operation. Increased efficiency (and your increased use of electricity) have helped to keep the price low. Electricity is the "best buy" in your budget today!

Cubs Take 4-3 Decision

Sub Reds Pilot Groans over Loss

CHICAGO (AP) — "It wasn't even close, it was foul," groaned Cincinnati acting manager Vern Benson.

"It was fair or I wouldn't have called it," said umpire Stan Landes.

"It didn't make any difference," said Ernie Banks, "because Billy Williams got the hit that won the game with two strikes on him."

The controversy developed in the fourth inning of Monday's 4-3 Chicago Cub victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Banks, who had slugged a second-inning homer to tie the score at 1-1, hit his 11th of the year and 453rd of his career in the fourth to put the Cubs ahead 2-1.

Benson, filling in for Dave Bristol who is undergoing a series of tests to determine the cause of a persistent cough, couldn't believe it when Landes signalled a fair ball.

"It wasn't even close," said Benson. "I've seen tougher calls on closer plays but this wasn't even a tough decision."

Young Gary Nolan was the victim of both blasts in hot, humid weather which forced the 20-year-old right-hander to change his soggy uniform midway in the game.

"I didn't see the ball," said Banks. "I knew it was going out when I hit it and I kept hoping it would be fair."

"But it didn't make much difference," continued Erie, "they got back ahead and Billy won it with that big double with two out and two strikes."

Cincinnati had taken a 3-2 lead with a pair in the top of the seventh. Adolfo Phillips opened the Cub seventh with a single and took second on an error. Bob Lee retired the next two men but walked Glenn Beckert on four pitches. Williams then followed with his winning double.

Noian gave up six hits, struck out five and walked two in his six innings. Reliever Lee took the loss.

Cubs starter Ken Holtzman went seven innings and picked up his fifth victory.

Iles Loft Wins Pigeon Race

Circleville Pigeon Club held its second 200-mile race Sunday from Corbin, Ky.

Iles Loft posted the fastest time of 852.1039 yards per minute. The loft also placed third and fourth with speeds of 843.68161 and 835.6991. Second was John Grabin with a speed of 845.8827.

Homer Kuntz was fifth, eighth, ninth and eleventh, Stan Crosby sixth, Virgil Russell seventh and Leach and Myers tenth.

Iles loft also won the nomination bird and loft derby. There were 10 lofts represented with 100 birds entered.

Stan Crosby won the 300-mile race held June 1 from Knoxville, Ky., with a speed of 1288.7553 yards per minute. Leach and Myers placed second with a speed of 1288.4651.

Paul Haddox placed third at a speed of 1227.3671. Iles Loft was fourth, flying at 1225.962 yards per minute.

Stan Crosby won nomination bird and loft derby. There were 12 lofts entered and a total of 128 birds competed.

High Court To Rule on Clay Appeal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The way has been cleared for Cassius Clay, the boxer stripped of the world's heavyweight title when he refused to accept induction into the armed forces, to appeal his federal court conviction to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Charles Morgan Jr., an Atlanta attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, said Monday after the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejected a request for an "en banc" rehearing of Clay's conviction, that he would appeal to the nation's highest court within 30 days.

The Supreme Court is expected to adjourn sometime this month until early October and presumably won't act on the Clay appeal until the fall.

The nine justices may simply refuse to review the five-year prison sentence and $10,000 fine given Clay after his conviction in U.S. District Court at Houston, Tex., last June 20.

It could be as late as next spring before any decision is reached if the Supreme Court decides to review the case.

"It's all in the hands of Allah, now," said Clay in Chicago, adding that he wasn't surprised about the New Orleans Appellate Court decision.

A normal three-judge panel of the 5th Circuit Court had upheld the conviction in an opinion issued here May 6. It rejected the claim by Clay, who prefers his Black Muslim name of Muhammad Ali, that he was a valid conscientious objector to military service because he is a minister of the sect.

Tribe Socks Oakland 7-2; Tigers Lead Cut

By MIKE RECHT
Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark let Lee Maye, Stan Williams and Mike Paul go back to doing what comes naturally, and it all turned out wonderfully for the Indians.

Last Friday night, Paul was pitching in relief against Detroit with a one run lead and retired the first two hitters in the ninth inning. But Dark moved him to first base and brought Williams out of the bullpen.

Williams allowed a single, Paul returned to the mound and Maye went to first base and fumbled a ground ball. The next hitter slammed a triple that beat the Indians.

Monday night, with Maye in the outfield, Williams the starting pitcher and Paul sticking to the mound in relief, the Indians barged by Oakland 7-2 and held onto second place in the American League.

Maye keyed a three-run first inning burst with a triple and Williams protected his advantage until the seventh when Paul bailed him out of a jam that cut the lead to 4-2. Dark let Paul stick to pitching the rest of the way and the Athletics never threatened again.

The victory cut Detroit's first-place lead over the Indians to three games and ruined Baltimore's chance of overtaking Cleveland as the Orioles downed Washington 4-1 behind Jim Hardin's four-hitter.

In the other AL game, the Chicago White Sox scored three times in the ninth inning for a 5-2 decision over the New York Yankees. California was rained out at Boston in the only other scheduled game.

After Jose Cardenal and Larry Brown started the first for Cleveland with singles off loser Lew Krausse, 2-7, and Tony Horton, playing first base, hit a sacrifice fly, Maye tripled for another run and scored on Duke Sims' hit.

Oakland never caught up, although the A's did get rid of Williams in the seventh with two walks and run-scoring singles by Reggie Smith and Bert Campaneris. But Paul entered and silenced any further Oakland hopes.

Just to be on the safe side, the Indians added three runs in the eighth to insure Williams' fifth victory in eight decisions.

Hardin certainly showed Washington what he does best as the 24-year-old right-hander won his eighth game against only two losses. He started slow and gave up three hits and a run in the first inning, but the Senators got only one bad hop single from then on as their record against the Orioles fell to 0-8 this season.

Boog Powell gave Hardin the runs he needed with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and a run-scoring single in the third against loser Camilo Pascual, 5-4.

Luis Aparicio, who singled and scored on Wayne Causey's pinch hit in the fifth inning for a 2-1 lead, blooped a double in the ninth to send the White Sox ahead of the Yankees. Bill Voss added a two-run single as reliever Dooley Womack's record fell to 0-5 and Wilbur Wood raised his to 4-2.

KENT, Ohio (AP)—"This is the kind of thing that only happens once in a great while."

"I don't know when we could expect to have another season like this one," says Kent State University High School Athletic Director Walter Gillard.

Few Ohio schools, indeed, can ever expect to match the brilliant performances turned in by Kent State High's athletes during the academic year.

The Class A school, run by Kent State University, competes in eight sports. Participation in football, basketball, cross country, swimming, wrestling, golf, tennis and track netted some 16 trophies for the school's showcase.

And the Statesmen have collected 40 different trophies since Gillard took over the athletic director reins four years ago.

Only in tennis, where Kent had a 4-9 record, was the season a bust.

The Statesmen copped four Portage County League championships — in cross country, wrestling, football and golf — were second to No. 3 ranked and unbeaten Streetsboro in basketball with a 12-6 mark and third in track.

The track team later made amends by capturing the Class A state championship at Ohio Stadium.

Track and field was only one of the brighter spots. Kent was second in Class A but had the individual champ in the state cross country meet in Dan Boyd.

In swimming, the Statesmen finished sixth in the state meet but bested all other small schools. And Bill Baird set state standards in the 200 and 400 yard freestyle events and will be competing in the Olympic trials next week at Indiana University.

Kent finished seventh in the state wrestling meet but led all other Class A schools. Roger Davidson, an All-Ohio fullback in football, was runnerup in the heavyweight division.

In golf, the Statesmen were fourth in the state tourney but first in the small school chase.

Gary Lindstedt, who tied existing records in the 100 and 440, led Kent to the track championship while the Statesmen's mile relay combo was setting a new mark.

Golfer Undaunted by Error With $1 Million Price Tag

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A veteran writer, who has covered golf since the days of Gene Sarazen, was questioning Roberto De Vicenzo.

"How long have you been coming to tourneys in this country, Roberto?"

The eyes crinkled, the smile flashed and the accented reply came:

"Longer than you have."

The answer—only slightly exaggerated—was typical of the cheerful, gracious gaucho who captured the imagination of the golfing world by the game's greatest blunder, signing away a chance at the Masters Championship.

"I lose my brains," he said in Augusta, Ga., after signing an incorrect scorecard and thereby losing a tie for first place and a shot at a victory in a playoff.

And he might have lost $1 million. Promoters estimate a Masters title can be parlayed into that figure in endorsements, appearances and so on.

But the aging Argentine hasn't lost the captivating smile, the unflinching good cheer, the sparkling wit that made him one of the world's most popular competitors even before he won his first major title, the British Open in 1957.

And he hasn't lost his sense of values.

"The Masters, ah, that was bad," he said today while practicing for the U.S. Open beginning Thursday at the Oak Hill Country Club.

"Not the money. It was the championship I would like to have. I make enough money."

What do I need more money? I have a nice home in Argentina. I have a car. It is a little old, perhaps, but why do I need a new one?

"And I have a nice family, wife and two boys. One boy is 21, one is 19. I play golf long enough each year to make enough money to take care of them. Then I go home and enjoy my family."

Roberto, big and balding, may have won more professional tournaments than any other golfer the world has known. Even he doesn't know how many.

"Maybe 140. Maybe a little more. I don't know for sure," he said. "I play all over the world, Europe, Asia, Australia, South America, everywhere."

But he's only a part-time performer on the rich, U.S. tour.

"I like this country," he said. "Some things about it I don't understand, but I like it."

And what is it he doesn't understand about this country?

"After the Masters, I should be shot. But people, the fans, they seem to love me."

"I play in three tournaments since then. I won one. Suddenly, everyone is my fan. Everywhere I go, they say 'Come on, Roberto. We're with you Roberto.' They slap me on the back."

In football, Kent posted its first unbeaten season in history with a 9-0 record and was ranked third in The Associated Press poll. Davidson, like swimmer Baird headed for Indiana University, chalked up several offensive records and won all-recognition.

Gilliard attributes Kent's success to the "dedication of our athletes and the excellent job done by our coaches."

Football Coach George Dostal and wrestling Coach Keith Wilson came to Kent at the same time Gilliard arrived. Track and cross country mentor Richard Siciliano joined the ranks in 1966 as did tennis Coach Jario Mastroine. Swim Coach Paul Bergen was hired last year and only golf mentor Donald Moore was on the scene before Gilliard, who also coaches basketball, signed as athletic director.

"We have 217 boys in the school and 135 participated in at least one sport. We're very proud of that," Gilliard said.

Maris Powers Cards To 4-3 Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris' tender heel probably hurts a lot less than Phil Niekro's scraped knuckles after their most recent duel at 60 feet, 6 inches.

Maris limped out of St. Louis' starting line-up Monday night with a bruised heel after smashing a two-run third inning homer that knocked out knuckleballer Niekro and powered the Cardinals to a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

After the ailing outfielder's third homer snapped a 2-2 tie, southpaw Larry Jaster and rookie reliever Wayne Granger made it stand up as the National League leaders beat the Braves.

The New York Mets nipped Los Angeles 1-0 in 10 innings on Tom Seaver's four-hitter and Al Weis' run-scoring single; San Francisco whipped Pittsburgh 8-0 behind Juan Marichal and the Chicago Cubs downed Cincinnati 4-3. Houston and Philadelphia were idle.

Maris' homer, which followed a double by Lou Brock, saddled Niekro with his fifth loss in 10 decisions while inflating his earned run average to 4.19.

The Cardinals scored two second inning runs on singles by Cepeda, Tim McCarver and Mike Shannon plus a ground out, Deron Johnson and Bob Tillman tagged Jaster for homers in the bottom of the second, tying it 2-2.

Granger replaced Jaster, 5-2, in the eighth with two on and one out, gave up a run-scoring single to Hank Aaron and then got Joe Torre to bounce into a double play before checking the Braves in the ninth.

Seaver stopped the Dodgers' winning streak at seven games in a tight duel with loser Don Sutton, who allowed only three hits until the 10th. Then Ron Swoboda walked, took third on Kevin Collins' single and scored the game's only run on Weis' single to center.

The victory gave Seaver a 4-5 mark while Sutton, who struck out 10 slipped to 3-6 on the year. Marichal, winningest pitcher in the majors, fired a four-hitter for his first shutout of the season and 11th victory against two setbacks. The Giants' ace struck out eight on the way to his seventh successive triumph.

Willie Mays and Ollie Brown each drove in two runs and Willie McCovey hit his 11th homer as the Giants moved past Los Angeles and Atlanta into second place, three games off the pace.

Chicago's Ernie Banks clubbed his 10th and 11th homers, but the Cubs fell behind 3-2 before overtaking Cincinnati on Billy Williams' two-run double in the seventh.

Left-hander Ken Holtzman picked up his fifth victory against four losses with late inning help from relievers Chuck Hartenstein and Phil Regan.

Atomic 100 Scheduled

CHILLICOTHE — A top award of $1,000 will be waiting for the winner of the third annual Atomic 100 to be run at Atomic Speedway on Friday night, June 21.

Officials of Chillicothe Stock Car Racing Association have announced that the guaranteed purse for the first of the season's two all-super-modified specials has been increased to a record $3,500.

Staged previously on Thursday nights, the Atomic 100 has been moved to a Friday night with a rain date set for the next night so that drivers from a long distance would be able to stay over.

In case the big race is run on schedule, the night of Saturday June 22, will be taken over exclusively by the hobby stocks for a special program.

With a total of $2,000 waiting to be pocketed by the first four finishers in the 100-lap non-stop feature, Atomic officials are expecting an all-time record number of entries from a wider area. The runner-up will receive $500, third $300 and fourth $200 as the result of the increase in the total purse from $3,000.

A minimum of three heat races and a consi will be presented in addition to the feature for the 20 fastest qualifiers.

Last year Harold McGilton of Fremont copped the $700 top prize and Sam Erwin of Portsmouth was the winner of the first Atomic 100. Dean Knittel of Portsmouth was runner-up both years, with Don Adams third last year and Rolie Beale third in 1966.

The Atomic 100 is the outgrowth of the 10th anniversary race in 1965 won by Bobby Morgan of Chillicothe, with Erwin second and Dick Diamond third.

Atomic Speedway is 12 miles south of Chillicothe, west of Route 23 at Ama. The track is one-third mile with clay high banks.

Hole-in-One Shot Came Day Too Soon

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — John "Jake" Flowers of Mt. Prospect, Ill., shot a hole in one Monday on the Edgewood Tahoe Course.

Had he made it today, Wednesday or Thursday during the Harrah's Invitational Tournament he would have won an $18,000 automobile.

Flowers, a 10-handicapper who said it was his first ace in 20 years on golfing, used a No. 5 iron on the 180-yard fifth hole.

Ginny's Gene Scioto Winner

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ginny's Gene, co-owned and driven by Joe Franklin of Greenville, captured the $1,400 featured race at Scioto Downs Monday night for her third straight victory.

The winner toured the mile in 2:04 3/5 and paid $4, $2.80 and $2.60. Adios Waverly placed for $3.20 and $2.80, and Sally Lind showed for $3.60.

The 4-1 combination of Armbror Hooter and Good Stock resulted in a $57 daily double.

Canadiens Get New Coach, Aide

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Canadiens have started a youth movement—behind the players' bench instead of on it.

In a surprising move Monday, the National Hockey League champions handed the sport's most prestigious coaching job to Claude Ruel, who had been the team's chief scout and won't turn 30 until Sept. 12.

Ruel succeeds Hector "Toe" Blake, who resigned last month after leading the Canadiens to eight Stanley Cups in 13 seasons. Blake will remain with the team as assistant to the vice president.

Floyd Curry, a former Canadiens' player who had been mentioned for the coaching spot, becomes assistant to the general manager.

Rain Postpones Baseball Action

All contests on the opening day of action in Circleville Youth Baseball Program were postponed due to rain and unplayable conditions.

Program supervisor Chuck Hill said part of the games will be made up Wednesday and part Saturday. The filed is playable for tonight's games.

Lady Pro Boosts Money Winnings

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carol Mann's victory Sunday in the Bluegrass Invitational at Louisville has boosted her first-place lead in ladies Professional Golf Association money winnings to more than $2,000, it was announced here today at LPGA headquarters.

Miss Mann, winning her fourth tournament on the 1968 tour, picked up $2,100 in the Louisville tournament and now has a total of $15,370.

Second-place Kathy Whitworth, winner of two tournaments, could do no better than third at Louisville and the $1,360 she won boosted her total to $13,205.

The next stop on the trail for the women pros will be at Indianapolis next weekend when they'll compete in the $15,000 Speedway Open.

The tournament will be held on the same Indianapolis Motor Speedway course that the men played last week. Billy Casper won that event.

Legion Baseball Needs Candidates

Youths interested in participating in American Legion Baseball in the Circleville and Pickaway County area are urged to contact Carl Radcliff Jr., 1064 Lynnwood Ave.

During a tryout session held Sunday, only three baseball hopefuls reported.

White-Negro School Merger Is Postponed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A wealthy suburban Cleveland school district won approval Monday to delay for at least two years a merger with a predominantly Negro district of Cleveland city schools.

The delay was granted by the State Board of Education after the Bratenahl Elementary School District promised to integrate its only school by transporting pupils from the Negro section of Glenville.

The action was decided by a 13-10 vote and marked the first time in recent years the state board has taken a direct stand on a local school integration issue.

Cleveland Negro legislators took opposing views, but State School Supt. Martin Esser said he was "pleasantly pleased and surprised" by Bratenahl's integration plan.

State Rep. Thomas Hill, a Negro and Cleveland Democrat, said "Bratenahl could easily serve as a classic example of segregation, northern style."

He presented a statement to the board opposing the delay.

Negro State Sen. M. Morris Jackson, also a Cleveland Democrat, told the board he did not oppose integration but "the merger of these two school districts wouldn't do either one any good."

Jackson said Bratenahl should be phased out gradually as Glenville schools are now overcrowded.

Bratenahl, a fashionable, predominantly white community on Lake Erie, has 143 students in its school. It is bordered by the Glenville section.

Under a new state law, all elementary school districts not serving high school students were to be dissolved this summer, but the state board was given authority to grant exemptions.

Monday's action assures Bratenahl at least one year of continued operation, with a second year authorized if the district carries out plans to admit 25 per cent of its enrollment from the Glenville area. After two years, the district still would be merged with Glenville.

Bratenahl had requested a 5-10 year delay, and at its May meeting, the State Department of Education recommended it be denied. But Essex withdrew the recommendation Monday after the district presented an integration plan.

The district said it plans to raise $30,000 to $35,000 a year for two years to provide finances and transportation for Glenville pupils to attend the richly endowed school.

State Board member William Judd of Cincinnati opposed the exemption, saying the district's integration plans "don't go far enough" and were introduced only "to satisfy our conscience."

Board member Wayne Shaffer of Bryan, who led the opposition to the exemption last month said "the situation has decidedly changed."

In another move, the board ordered the State Department of Education to survey public schools to find out how many Negro teachers are employed. The board asked for a report on the survey by October.

Government officials in Kenya have undertaken a program to persuade the 100,000 nomadic Masai to settle down and raise cattle on ranches. It is part of a plan to bolster the nation's livestock industry. For centuries the Masai have herded cattle across the high grasslands of Kenya and Tanzania.

WESLEYAN GRAD — Thomas Franklin Tootle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Tootle, Route 2, was graduated Sunday from Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware with a Bachelor of Arts degree in economics. Tootle has accepted a position with Aetna Life and Casualty Co. at Hartford, Conn., beginning July 1.

YMCA Nets $6,000 for Fund Quota

Pickaway County YMCA Fund is well on its way to its quota, according to William Shockley, local Y chairman.

Contributions and membership fees so far have netted $6,000. YMCA officials hope to raise nearly $10,000 to cover first year operational expenses.

Several forms of aiding the YMCA facilities are available. Founders — donors of from $500 to $1,000 — have accounted for much of the total collections. The Century Club is for donors of $100 who do not wish to participate, but desire to help the program in its initiation.

Partners-in-youth program is set up for the non-participant who wants to enroll a particular boy or girl. The last form is family membership for participating in all.

"SINCE this is the Pickaway County YMCA we need the support of the entire county. Everyone can help make the new YMCA a success," reported Shockley. Funds collected the first year will be used for general operation and extension of YMCA facilities into an all year around program.

Further information concerning YMCA activities may be gained by contacting the office at 474-8621.

No Muffler Case Heard

Steven R. Heeter, 28, of 121 Walnut St., pleaded guilty in Circleville Municipal Court Monday to charges of operating his motorcycle without a muffler.

Judge Sterling Lamb fined Heeter $10 and costs, but suspended the fine on the condition that Heeter install a muffler before driving his motorcycle again.

Carl Keaton, 20, of 137 Highland Ave., was fined $10 and costs for operating an unsafe motor vehicle.

Raymond Boggs, 30, Route 2, Laurelville, forfeited a $19 bond when he failed to appear to answer charges of speeding 70 miles an hour in a 60 mile zone.

Noel C. Rader, 20, of 100 Northridge Road, forfeited a $19 bond for speeding 41 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone.

Fourteen out-of-county offenders paid fines and bond forfeitures amounting to $407.

Atwater Boys' Choir Presents Spring Concert

Atwater Boys' Choir, directed by Paul Dunkle, presented their Spring Concert Sunday in the Presbyterian Church.

More than 80 parents, teachers and interested persons attended the concert. After the welcome by assistant Brian Barthelmas, the choir members filed into the church singing "From Sea to Shining Sea" in memory of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The first section of songs were spirituals and featured solos by Mike Lawler, John Stout, Jeff Swackhammer, Rick Hartinger and Mike Karikoff.

A group of popular tunes composed of "Gonna Build A Mountain," "Climb Every Mountain," "Moon River" and "Do-Re-Mi" were next sung by the choir.

During the break between groups the parents of the choristers were given recognition by the director and those in attendance. Also a brief history of the group was given by Dunkle.

The section of religious songs which were learned near the beginning of the year and including the most recent song to be memorized "Our Father," an old Gregorian chant, followed the break.

One of the most impressive numbers in the program began the last division of songs which featured the choir as a background to the poem "The New Colossus" read by Brian Barthelmas. Other numbers in the last section were "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Let There Be Peace On Earth" and "God Bless America," which was sung by the choir and the audience.

Brian Barthelmas and Kirk Knecht presented Dunkle with a set of gold cuff links and tie bar on behalf of the choir. To close the program the choir sang one of their favorite numbers "Born Free."

Vo-Ed School Meeting Set

Youth with Funny Specs Has Tough Time Readjusting

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — John Thomas Zimmerman emerged from his dim, topsy-turvy world Monday and promptly got sick.

His world had been topsy-turvy because for three weeks, his only vision had been through strange-looking glasses that made everything he saw appear upside down and backwards.

His world had been dim because the glasses afforded only a narrow, barely light 7-degree field of vision, compared with normal vision of about 180 degrees.

The nausea came when he took off the glasses and found himself dizzy and disoriented at seeing things right side up again.

Despite the discomfort, the 19-year-old Zimmerman was pleased because his experiment had been fruitful.

The study, and a 2-month stint with right side up, but reversed, glasses before that, were aimed at learning how mind and body reactions adapt when the eyes see things as they are not.

Eventually, he said, it is hoped the pilot studies will learn to help the mind and body—possibly with the aid of hypnosis—conquer vision defects. Zimmerman, a freshman at the University of Colorado, has been near-sighted since he was born prematurely, tipping the scales at 30 ounces.

For his latest tests, he wore glasses with periscope-like prisms mounted on them.

"It feels like I'm walking upside down," he said. A first-hand view through the odd spectacles—while Zimmerman kept his eyes closed—showed such sensations as watching one's own feet appear to be approaching, and instinctively reaching to meet a proffered handshake with the left hand.

There were some embarrassing moments too. He said a girl friend and another girl were standing beside each other, and with the vision reversed, "I hugged the wrong one. They both gave me heck."

Huntington Bancshares Purchase Is Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board approved Monday the application of Huntington Bancshares, Inc., a registered bank holding company of Columbus, Ohio, to purchase 80 per cent or more of the voting stock of the Savings Bank Company, Chillicothe, Ohio.

The reserve board said the acquisition of control would not significantly diminish banking competition or tend to create a banking monopoly. It held that the transaction would be in the public interest.

Two area residents reported acts of destructive vandalism to their cars to Circleville Police Monday.

Jill Congrove, 159 Fairview Ave., told police that the rear quarter panel of her car was scratched with a sharp object. Mrs. Roger May, Route 1, reported the left windshield had been hit with a rock while parked near the A & H Tire Shop on N. Scioto St. Monday.
